EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

OSCAR WILDE is with us once again.

BUSINESS failures are increasingly numerous.

BOSTON claims that Sullivan is a literary slugger.

THE Democratic extra session has cost the taxpayers of the State $250,000.

REFORM GOVERNORS have proven expensive luxuries to the State that elected them last fall.

SARAH BERNHARDT having lost her fortune announces her intention of returning to America next fall.

THE Democrats will have a good time explaining to the voters this fall the reason for prolonging the extra session.

JUSTICE BOWEN, who will accompany the Lord Chief Justice of England to America, is the youngest Judge on the English Bench.

SECRETARY Folger has announced that the practice of giving clerks a vacation of ten days to go home and vote is to be abandoned.

THE principality of Monoco is for sale for $20,000,000. Here's a chance for Gould, Vanderbilt or some other rich American to become a prince.

PHILADELPHIA Bulletin: If the people of Pennsylvania could all get their right legs into one gigantic boot how they would lift the Legislature!

HALF a million people often leave New York on a single Sunday, going on excursions. The amount paid by them for transportation exceeds $250,000.

THE existing dissatisfaction among labor organizations is hardly to be wondered at. When legislators can obtain ten dollars per day for doing nothing, the laboring man objects to working hard for a wage of one or two dollars.

COLONEL CHARLES J. BURNS, of Evansville, Ind., has a two-year old calf that has developed astonishing fleetness of foot and won seven races in contests against noted horses this year. The calf has run a mile in 2.20 and is valued at $1,500.

PREPARATIONS are being made for the building of additional vaults for the safe-keeping of the superabundant silver coin which the government mints are constantly accumulating by their never ceasing coinage. Plans are being prepared by the treasury department and an appropriation of $100,000 will doubtless be made in providing for the storage of this useless and unproductive aggregation of coin beyond the commercial requirements of the country.

THE political revolution now going on in Mississippi is one of the most significant movements of the present political era. The fusion between the better class of Republicans and Democrats is mainly to secure good county government, but its results will be more far-reaching than this. It will solve the question of a free ballot and a fair count, and give the colored voters the rights which have been denied them so long in state, congressional and national elections.

The Timber of the Future.

Commissioner Loring and a few kindred spirits who constitute the National Forestry Association, says the Philadelphia Press, have been holding a congress in St. Paul, Minnesota. The object of this association and of its annual congress is the preservation of our forests and the encouragement of the planting of new ones. The census figures show that our wooded country is being rapidly stripped of its timber. The lumberman's axe and the forest fires together are robbing our mountain sides of their forest and making the wood plains everywhere as bare as the prairies. It has changed the physical condition of the country, making its drouths more destructive and its periodical floods devastating deluges. At the present rate of destruction we must, in the course of time, become as bare of trees as Spain, and Mr. Loring and his congress desire to prevent this calamity.

It is idle to appeal to the owners of forest land to let the trees stand in the interests of posterity. "Woodman, spare that tree" is a mandate the woodman will not regard except for a cash consideration. Until there is a greater profit, present or prospective, in keeping the trees rather than in cutting them up for lumber, down they must come in the order of their accessibility to market. The congress seems to recognize the hopelessness of checking the felling of the existing forest in view of the constant demand for lumber and profit in meeting it, but it has hopes of securing their renewal. This it seeks to do by encouraging tree-planting. If this were done on a scale commensurate with the destruction of the forests, it is needless to say that it would entirely abate the fear now felt we will ultimately become a comparatively treeless country.

The prairie states for several years have encouraged the planting of trees with very gratifying results. The result is shaded roads, where before the July sun had free play, and pretty parks of young trees here and there adorning the scene and delighting the eyes. That any sort of substitute will ever be created in this way for the dense, dark forests that are being cleared away by the square league week by week is out of the question. It is too much to expect that valuable farm lands should be given up to forest culture, so that it is obvious that the generation that must depend on these road side maples and elms for their lumber supply will, at the best, have very slender pickings. In the states originally covered by a forest growth little or no attempt is made to replace the trees by planting others. Much of the land laid bare by the woodman is worthless for farming, and where nature does not supply a profitable second growth it would be well worth while for some agency to take the trouble to plant one and to guard the young forest against the devastation of cattle and of forest fires.

This congress very wisely, therefore, held its session close to the pineries of the Northwest. The sands of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, which produce the valuable white pine timber, cannot be utilized to better advantage than by the cultivation of a second crop of the same timber. If the congress by influencing the legislatures of these states can do something toward perpetuating the pine supply in this way, the public spirited men composing it will have something valuable and tangible to show for their labors in the cause of forest culture.

IT has been reported that two large caves, extending for miles under the mountains, have been discovered in North Carolina, and that they are now being explored. As the cave story is about exhausted not much dependence is placed on the reports.

The Outlook For 1884.

The reasoning o the Philadelphia Press is as follows: In 1880 there were 369 electorial votes, and it required 185 to elect. Garfield and Arthur had 214. In 1884, through the increase of representation under the new census, there will be 401 electorial votes, of which 201 will constitute a majority. If the states should vote then as they voted in 1880, the division would be as follows:—

REPUBLICAN.		DEMOCRATIC.
Colorado	3	Alabama	10
Connecticut	6	Arkansas	7
Illinois	22	California	8
Indiana	15	Delaware	3
Iowa	13	Florida	4
Kansas	9	Georgia	12
Maine	6	Kentucky	13
Massachusetts	14	Louisiana	8
Michigan	13	Maryland	8
Minnesota	7	Mississippi	9
Nebraska	5	Missouri	16
New Hampshire	4	Nevada	3
New York	36	New Jersey	9
Ohio	23	North Carolina	11
Oregon	3	South Carolina	9
Pennsylvania	30	Tennessee	12
Rhode Island	4	Texas	13
Vermont	4	Virginia	12
Wisconsin	11	West Virginia	6
	228		173

This would give the Republicans a majority of fifty-five electoral votes over the Democrats, and twenty-seven more than the number necessary to elect. Both columns, however, embrace states that in any intelligent calculation must be classed as doubtful. Of the Republican column Connecticut, Indiana and New York may be included in the doubtful list; and of the Democratic column, California, Florida, New Jersey and Virginia. The revised table would stand thus:—

Sure Rep. States	171	Sure Dem. States	129
DOUBTFUL.		DOUBTFUL.
Connecticut	6	California	8
Indiana	15	Florida	4
New York	36	New Jersey	9
		North Carolina	11
		Virginia	12
Doubtful Rep.	57	Doubtful Dem.	44

With 171 sure electoral votes, the Republicans would have to secure just 30 more from the list of doubtful states in order to carry the Presidency. New York alone would do it with six votes to spare. If New York were gained, as it was in 1880, every other doubtful state might be yielded to the Democrats. Or if Connecticut, Indiana and New Jersey were gained, the Republicans could win without New York. Or, again, if they secured California and Florida, in both of which they have an excellent chance, they could safely loose New Jersey. Or, still again, if they carried Connecticut, California, Florida and Virginia, they could win without Indiana, New York and New Jersey.

We have classed as doubtful all that may be embraced in that list. Three months ago Ohio might with some show of reason have been challenged. If it were lost to the Republicans this year, as there seemed then some reason to fear, it might be regarded as doubtful next. But Ohio has now straightened up and may fairly be counted among the sure Republican States. Of those which the Democrats carried in 1880 the Republicans have a good outlook in California, New Jersey and Florida. As the Republicans have but thirty votes to gain among the doubtful states, while the Democrats have seventy-two, it is clear that the chances are on the Republican side.

SMITH is altogether too common a name for a candidate for associate Judge. Dale would grace the bench much better. As for Heinle, he has already had the office of District Attorney long enough. Rotation in office is the American rule; therefore, let Harshberger try it awhile. The influence which President Judge John H. Orvis will exert in county affairs is quite sufficient for one family without adding to it by electing his son Ellis to the responsible position of county surveyor. S. D. Ray is perhaps more efficient and experienced, and certainly more deserving.

THAT misfortunes never come singly is a saying to whose veracity the experience of Egypt is just now bearing persuasive witness. Ismail was followed by Arabi, Arabi by the war, the war by the plague, and now while the cholera is slaying its thousands, the rising waters of the Nile threaten the destruction of the crops. For some reason or other, the Egyptians always were a much plagued people.

IT IS reported, says the Harrisburg Telegraph, that Judge Black, upon returning to a consciousness of mundane affairs after the surgical operation performed upon him on Tuesday, August 14, observed "now I will attend to Jeff Davis." It is to be hoped, for his own sake, that of his friends, and the public generally, that he will be able to carry out his promise. But the matter has its grotesque features. At the very moment that Judge Black was turning his attention to his whilom friend, Jeff Davis, James Sill, a Republican Senator from Erie fired off a resolution of sympathy and sweeping endorsement of Judge Black's public career. As Judge Black says he will attend to Jeff Davis, somebody, the Erie constituents for instance, will have to attend to Senator Sill. The superserviceable zeal of some people in rushing into notoriety as a rule meets its merited reward. The expression of sympathy for so prominent a citizen as Judge Black might be regarded as right enough in the abstract, but would have come more appropriately from the other side of the House, but the fulsome political endorsement, appended to the resolution was, to say the least, a novel proceeding. If, according to this Sill-y performance, all that the Republicans of the State have been condemning in Judge Black's course twenty-five years ago was right, then the Republicans have been stultifying themselves. Jeff Davis says Judge Black was responsible for the late unpleasantness. Has Sill taken up the cudgels for Black? At all events he has given him a good send off, even if he did put his Republican colleagues in a hole.

IT is supposed by some people that Noah's Ark has been discovered imbedded in ice and in a good state of preservation on the top of Mount Ararat. They proclaim its discovery as a conclusive evidence of the authenticity of the Bible. Such, indeed, it would be if the identical ark, complete in all its parts as Noah built it. But the Bible history needs no such proof. Any one, with the slightest degree of intelligence, who studies that marvelous work and notices how exactly every prophesy has been fulfilled, must be convinced of its inspiration and truth. Although we shall await with interest developments in regard to this ark we must confess that we do not believe it is the Bible ark, and however the investigation results it will not add to or detract from our belief in the Bible. It is impossible to add to the contents of a vessel already full; and if the Bible and God are not true we are ready to declare life a bore and not worth enduring and see no reason why the human family should be perpetuated.

IOWA is just now having a practical illustration of the eccentricities of the woman's rights movement. The Republicans having made an excellent nomination for Superintendent of Public Schools, the Democrats have turned in and nominated the Republican candidate's wife. The people of Iowa will now have a chance to decide "which is the better man of the two." Between stump speaking and Caudle lectures the Republican candidate will have his hands full before the campaign is over. They seem to be following the example set by Bellefonte some time ago, when the Democrats did the same thing in their nomination for school director in the North ward.

SENATOR MAHONE, who speaks with all the confidence of a successful leader, declares that there can be no doubt about Republican success in 1884, and unhesitatingly maps out a course which will lead to it. He says the party must stand firm for protection, must pay off the public debt, and must use what money there is left to build up our State and common schools, thus educating the people. Toward the South he intimates that the Republican policy which has made him a leader should be continued. He also says that President Arthur "by his appointments to office" has "done more to eliminate sectional prejudices than any other man since the war."

TWENTY Iowa Republicans have united in a formal protest against the position of their party on the prohibition question. The situation is a very peculiar one. Last year the people of the State adopted, by a large majority, a constitutional amendment not only prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors of all kinds, but prohibiting their manufacture as well. The Supreme Court declared the amendment invalid on account of some irregularities in its passage through the Legislature. When the Republican Convention met this year, the leaders of the party decided that it would be fatal to go against the expressed will of the people in the matter, and induced the Convention to declare in favor of the necessary legislation to secure another vote by the people. The platform even went further, and described the issue as one of the "home against the saloon," taking ground that every man who opposed absolute prohibition was a friend of the saloon and an enemy of the home. Against this attitude the twenty Republicans protest.

IT IS now nearly a month past the time in the season when the money markets usually become active, yet there is still an over-supply of money to loan on call on undoubted collateral security, at the lowest rates ever known in this country. This money, however, seeks safety rather in investment than higher rates of interest. The fact that money continues so much lower in New York than in London keeps up the rate for sterling exchange and prevents the movement of specie this way, but the general opinion is that as the rate of interest advances here it will cause a movement of gold from Europe to the United States, and that such a movement would do more than almost any other one thing to restore confidence in the general financial and commercial situation.

AS Captain Pratt was able to show from what has been accomplished at Carlisle, the education of Indian children has passed beyond the experimental stage. Its feasibility has been abundantly established, and though the work is still fresh and has been carried on under many difficulties, the results already attained distance all expectation. Indian parents appreciate the benefits of the instruction given, and are ready and eager to send their children to the government training school, while the children are found to make surprisingly bright and willing pupils. It is unquestionably in this direction that the solution of the Indian problem is to be found.

PUBLIC disfavor is settling upon the Salvation army. It has been forbidden to sing in the streets of New Haven; its drills have been stopped in New York, and in Syracuse not only have its parades been prohibited, but when one of its officers undertook to defy the city government, the entire regiment was arrested. The recent scandals among its members have operated strongly against it, and its value as a religious agency among the lower classes has been so greatly impaired that its long existence is very improbable.

MR. WATTERSON thinks Mr. Randall and Democrats of his way of thinking will make a great mistake if they act upon the presumption that the tariff question will be sent to the rear in the next Presidential election.

HENDRICKS says his sore toe is able enough to run in the Presidential race to be made next year.

SENATOR ANTHONY continues to improve, and is almost as well as ever.

GENERAL NOTES.

Vanderbilt had Maud S. very successfully photographed at Saratoga.

Daniel F. Beatty, the great organ builder and advertiser, was 35 years old on Tuesday last.

Capt. Henry Mann, of Maine, has the under jawbone of Francisco Pizarro, the conqueror of Peru. He took it from a Callao cathedral vault.

Lieut. Wissman, who walked across Africa from Zanzibar to the mouth of the Congo, has returned to Berlin. He was received by the Crown Prince.

Gov. Murray of Utah is lecturing in favor of the abolition of an elective Legislature, and the substitution of a legislative council, to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

A clergyman from Lowell has returned from a journey by horse and wagon to Minneapolis and back—time, fourteen months, but he did not hurry.

A variety show drew more people in Saratoga than did an operatic concert, and there was no appreciable difference in the clothes or manners of the two audiences.

In a California cemetery a large monument stood over the grave of a man whose relatives were dead. A woman boldly had it removed to her own lot, planed off its inscription and had it lettered again to suit the mortuary requirements of her family.

The people of Klagenfurt in Carinthia, have witnessed a splendid solar halo. As usual, the space between the sun and the surrounding ring was quite dark. The inner portion of the ring was of a rose color, fading toward the outer circle into pure white.

Edward McClintock, who once traded the site of all Denver for a mule, has never seen a steamboat, and within a month had his first ride on a railroad, has money enough to take a pleasure trip to Saratoga, notwithstanding his miss of a fortune in real estate.

It is arranged that the American Minister will unveil the memorial bust of Henry Fielding on Sep. 4, at Taunton, England. It will be placed close to the busts, in the Sommersetshire Hall, of three of England's worthies, all natives of the same county—Locke, Blake and Pym.

The cavaliers and officers of the German Emperor's suite will give to him in October, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his accession to the Regency, a huge bronze shield, en bosse with the portraits of the Princes and Generals who fought under him in the French campaign.

A writer to a London newspaper says that, after spending months among the poor of the city, he has come to the conclusion that large numbers of them have a hatred and ferocity toward wealth and aristocracy which could not be surpassed by any Russian Nihilist or French Communist.

The famous live oak tree, near Jacksonville, Fla., known as the "devil's riding whip," which is situated three-quarters of a mile north-west of the "devil's mill-hopper," near Gainesville, measures 33 feet and 4½ inches in circumference one foot from the ground. The tree is hollow, and affords ample shelter for 40 hogs.

A French officer who has witnessed the impassibility of Mongolian criminals under the most atrocious tortures comes to the conclusion that the nervous system of the Chinese and kindred people is so different from that of Europeans that they really are not capable of a hundredth part of the suffering of more highly organized races.

In the Capital at Rome two Gothic rooms containing fine frescoes of the Umbrian schools toward the end of the fifteenth century have been discovered. An inscription indicates the painter to have been "Pietro Spagnolo di Miecilello," probably the father of "Giovanni Spagna," whom Vasari mentions a pupil of Perugino, and as envied even by Raphael.

The police of Toulouse, France, made a descent upon the house of a grocer named Rouzoul, and rescued from a cellar a man and his son in the last stage of starvation. They were the brother-in-law and nephew of Rouzoul, who had kept them in durance while he squandered their fortune of $20,000. They were found to be entirely bereft of reason.

Quite recently a woman fell dead in prayer-meeting down in Georgia. Then eight negroes who were on their way across the James river at Richmond to a church service were drowned by the overturning of the boat they were in. Only last week two young men lost their lives in a similar manner while going to a camp-meeting on Kemperfeldt Bay, up in Canada.

A gentleman who was out hunting on the Nueces river, Texas, saw a bear go into a hollow tree. He made him come out, shooting him as he did so. Thereupon in rapid succession six other large bears came out of the same tree, all of whom the mighty hunter laid low. It is supposed that the hollow in the tree communicated with a subterranean cave, in which a colony of bears dwelt.

Miss Benedicte Price, aged 66 years, arrived in Philadelphia a few days since, and when landing from the steamship British Crown, was met by her intended husband, aged 70. They had been engaged for over thirty years, and had not seen each other for twenty-eight years. The meeting in the saloon of the steamer was tender and affectionate. After receiving the congratulations of the passengers and the company assembled, they left the ship, with the intention of being married immediately.

Du Maurier, the humorous artist of Punch who brought Oscar Wilde into publicity by caricaturing the æsthetes, is a pleasant-looking man of middle height, with genial manners. He wears a light moustache and imperial, which gives him a foreign aspect, and is compelled by defective vision to use glasses. On account of his bad sight, he makes his drawings considerably larger than the impressions which appear in print. He is a rapid worker, doing the delicate details which abound in his pictures with wonderful facility.

HEALTH ALPHABET.

The Ladies' Sanitary Association, of London, gives the following simple rules for keeping health, which we find copied in the Sanitarian:

A—s soon as you are up shake blanket and sheet;
B—etter be without shoes than sit with wet feet;
C—hildren, if healthy, are active, not still;
D—amp beds and damp clothes will both make you ill;
E—at slowly and always chew your food well;
F—reshen the air in the house where you dwell;
G—arments must never be made tight;
H—omes should be healthy, airy and light;
I—f you wish to be well, as you do I've no doubt
J—ust open the windows before you go out;
K—eep the room always tidy and clean;
L—et dust on the furniture never be seen;
M—uch illness is caused by the want of pure air;
N—ow, to open the windows be ever your care;
O—ld rags and old rubbish should never be kept;
P—eople should see that their floors are well swept;
Q—uick movements in children are healthy and right;
R—emember the young cannot thrive without light;
S—ee that the cistern is clear to the brim;
T—ake care that your dress is all tidy and trim;
U—se your nose to find if there be a bad drain;
V—ery sad are the fevers that come in its train;
W—alk as much as you can without feeling fatigue;
X—erxes could walk full many a league;
Y—our health is your wealth, which your wisdom must keep;
Z—eal will help a good cause, and the good you will reap.

THE SUMMER SOLSTICE.

The sun has touched his northern bound,
And southward turns his course to-day;
The soft sweet air new charm has found
In fragrance of the new mown hay;
The stalwart farmer deftly swings
His glittering blade the earth anear
And into swaths and winrows flings
The earliest harvest of the yearr.

God made the country, saith the sage,
And man has made the noisy town;
Then be my path of pilgrimage
'Mong clover-heads and thistle-down,
To walk with nature hand in hand,
In nature's pure and simple way,
And 'neath the elms and maples stand
In fragrance of the new-mown hay.

Now boisterous boys and romping girls
Toss here and there the wilting grass;
The wanton winds toss grass and curls,
And hours in toil and pleasure pass;
There's laughter ringing in the air—
But see, a show-r! it comes this way.
It clouds the sky, but now so fair,
And perils all the new-mown hay.

Quick! Bend to work your sinews strong,
The growth of healthful country homes;
Work with your might; 'twill not be long
Before the drenching shower comes;
Ply fast the rake and fork, and heap
The cocks that shed the rain away;
And then to supper and to sleep,
'Mid fragrance of the new-mown hay.

Our Story Teller.

Mrs. Perkins' Presentiment.

If there was anything "in the heavens above, in the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth," that Mrs William Perkins was afraid of it was a burglar! When a mere child her father's house had been broken into and robbed, and the remembrance of the excitement of that time was too strong to be ever effaced. And ever since she has had a house of her own, she has been expecting a similar occurrence. Not a night passed that she didn't look into the closet or under the bed, and her husband jokingly declared that she even examined the soap dish and match safe in the expectation of beholding a fierce robber concealed therein.

She was, indeed, a timid little body, starting nervously at the slightest sound, always on the lookout for "signs," and now and then when "blue" and depressed, declaring that "she had a presentiment."

"I believe something is going to happen to-night, William," she said, late one summer evening, as she sat down on the edge of the bed and unbuttoned her shoes. I have had such a heavy, weighed down feeling all the afternoon."

"You coop yourself up too much, my dear. A run over the hills or a call at a neighbor's would tone you up wonderfully."

His wife looked injured.

"I thought you didn't approve of women gadding about," she said, with a pout.

"Not gadding, my dear, of course not. I only meant taking necessary exercise." But anxious to avoid a storm. "What makes you blue to-night?"

"I don't know. I'm sure, unless it is thinking about burglars. Did you know that the Millers, who live up on the creek road, had their house entered last week? The thieves got a watch, a pair of earrings, and quite a sum of money. I truly believe they will pay us a visit before long," and Mrs. Perkins shuddered as she tied her nightcap strings.

"Well, let them come!" said her husband, cooly, as he laid his tired head on the pillow. "They've been coming ever since we've been married and kept house, and that's—let me see—nine years in June. Takes 'em a long while—hey, Betty?"

'You needn't laugh, it's no joking matter. And I tell you what," impressively, "I know that something is agoing to happen—I feel it in my bones."

About twelve o'clock that night, Mr. Perkins was awakened by two cold hands clasping his neck, while his wife with chattering teeth, whispered:

"William!—William! Wake up. Somebody is stealing your Plymouth Rocks!"

This was enough to fully arouse him, for he was somewhat of a poultry fancier, and the Plymouth Rock fowls, being at that time a very rare breed, had been purchased by him at an extravagant price.

He sprang out of bed, seized, his revolver, and hurried down stairs and out at the back door. It was a warm summer night, and he experienced no discomfort in his light and airy attire.

Just as he approached the hennery, the thief ran from it. No human burglar, indeed, but instead, a small black and white animal—a weasel or a cat—which, Mr. Perkins could not tell. But the animal, whatever it was, had one of his young Plymouth Rock chickens in its mouth.

'The pesky thing,' muttered Mr. Perkins. 'I wonder if I can't catch it.' And away he started in pursuit.

Down the garden walk went the thief—out under the front gate and across the road. Regardless of the stones and mud and of his own scant attire, Mr. Perkins followed. There was a rush—than a scramble, a sprawl—a spiteful scratching and spitting—and, the next instant Mr. Perkins had the struggling, furry body in his grasp.

Fortunately, the culprit proved to be only a cat. It's victim was limp and lifeless.

Angry and disappointed, Mr. Perkins bestowed a parting kick on the murderous feline, and then, holding the poor little Plymouth Rock in his hands, he turned to retrace his steps to the house.

But at this instant, around a curve in the road, not more than a dozen rods away, was heard the sound of horses' hoofs and carriage wheels.

The moon threw a broad, white light upon the road, and Mr. Perkins knew that he could not recross without being seen by the occupants of the approaching vehicle. Accordingly, he darted behind a clump of elderbushes, and crouching down, waited in breathless anxiety.

'Jerusalem!' he muttered to himself. 'This is a pretty pickle for a deacon of the church to be in!'

Nearer and nearer came the carriage, the horses jogging along at a funeral rate—evidently the driver was in no hurry.

There were two persons in the carriage. The moonlight fell full on their faces, and Mr. Perkins, peering through the bushes, recognized Henry Martin, a likely young farmer of the vicinity, and Dora Sanders, his sweetheart. It may be well to state just here, that the two were returning from a party at which, for a wonder, fair Dora had been so unusually gracious, that young Martin, hitherto a very timid lover, had courageously made up his mind to go through the trying ordeal of "popping the question" on their homeward journey. Indeed, by the time they had reached the Perkins domain, he had actually gotten so far as to say in a stammering tone:

"And now, Dora, you know, just as well as I do, that I would do anything for you. Because—because—you know I lo—"

"Oh, oh, oh!" screamed Dora, for just at this instant, the horse, being endowed with the sharp-sightedness of animals in general, had suddenly seen something white in the bushes—in fact, nothing less than a gleam of Mr. Perkins' flowing drapery—and, much frightened, shied to the other side of the road.

Coaxing, commands and even the whip availed nothing. Balky and determined he would not pass the unknown object.

"Blast the creature! What ails him? He's never acted so before," Martin exclaimed.

'Don't whip him again! He's frightened. He sees something in the bushes. I know he does—I see it myself—it's something white.'

'A garment blown from the clothes line. Or, maybe it's a newspaper. I'll go and see.'

'No! Don't leave the horse! He's too nervous! Just see how he trembles. You hold him by the bridle and I'll go and see what it is,' and with a nimble bound, Dora sprang from the carrage and walked toward the bushes.

Now Mr. Perkins was not a nervous man, but his predicament at this particular minute was not very pleasant. The thought of his scant attire filled him with consternation. And there she—a fine modest young lady!—was every moment drawing nearer and nearer. A mortifying discovery was inevitable! The only alternative was to take refuge in flight.

The next instant young Martin and Miss Dora were startled at seeing a tall white figure spring from behind the clump of bushes, dart across the road, and half-lost among the shadows, creep along the side of the fence.

The horse, rendered frantic by this sudden apparition, gave a violent plunge and breaking loose from his master's hold, rushed madly down the road.

"Oh, Henry! What was it? A ghost—I'm sure it is! You know that a peddler was found murdered just about here years ago. And I've heard the place was haunted! Oh, it's a ghost!—it's a ghost!"

"Nonsense. Ten chances to one it's a burglar up to some deviltry. I'm going to shoot at him—that's what I am!"

For knowing that he would have to ride five miles over a lonely road, and having his mind somewhat exercised by the reports of there being burglars about, Harry Martin had that evening taken the precaution to bring a revolver with him. Drawing this out now, he cried, excitedly:

"Speak, or I'll shoot!"

Unfortunately Mr. Perkins was a a little bit deaf, and, in his trepidation, did not hear what was said. His only desire was to get within the shelter of his own house. For several yards along the fence, there grew a row of brier bushes, and here he floundered, the sharp thorns clinging to his garments and lacerating his flesh, as he vainly strove to find some opening through which he might climb over.

Just as he put one foot on the lower rail in the act of leaping over, he heard the report of a pistol and felt a shot stinging in the fleshy part of his leg. Groaning with pain he sank upon the grass.

"Good heavens, Dora, it's Mr. Perkins himself!" young Martin exclaimed, overcome with horror and dismay.

The confusion of the next hour may be easily imagined. Dora rushed up to the house. She was met at the door by Mrs. Perkins, whose alarm at the long absence of her husband had been increased by the report of the pistol. Fortunately the little woman acted like many other nervous persons, who, weak at imaginary dangers, are strong in time of real trouble; and, repressing her emotion, she calmly assisted Mr. Martin and Dora in bringing in the helpless body of her husband.

But an hour later, when Mr. Perkins lay comfortably in bed, rejoicing in the assurance that the wound was trifling, his wife could not help saying as she sank into an easy chair beside him:

"I knew that something would happen to night! What do you think of my presentiment now, Mr. Perkins."

How He Won Her.

Arkansaw Traveler.

"I tell you, sir," indignantly exclaimed Colonel Webley, addressing a young man who aspired to the hand of his only child, "that I shall never give my consent to a union which I know would be unhappy."

"We love each other," replied young Balehuff.

"Love be eternally blowed! So I could have said years ago. I was devoted to the woman I married and she was devoted to me."

"You have lived happily with each other, have you not?"

"Happily!" the Colonel contemptuously repeated. "I didn't have money enough to insure happiness. Even in Arkansas a man must have money. His wife may be devoted to him, but if he fails to provide those little delicacies which make life so enjoyable to a woman, she will speak of this sad lack of comfort, and instead of attributing it to financial inability, will regard it as willful neglect. At times she will be melting with affection and vow that your love is all that she cares for in this world, but when some one who in worldly goods seems no richer than yourself rides in a buggy with his wife, she loses sight of the great sustaining love, and hankers after tangible affection, a street display of love."

"I am a young man of energy and good business capacity. I can work and earn money."

"No use in prolonging this conversation, I have told you that you shall not marry my daughter. I shall keep a close watch, and if I see you here again I shall act with violence."

"Well, Colonel," said the young man with firmness, "as the gentler resources have failed, I am compelled to adopt the last resort. Some time ago, before you suspected that I was attached to your daughter, you borrowed $10 of me. Do not wince, sir; hear me through. You thought I had forgotten the transaction, but I hadn't. Now, sir, I intend to marry your daughter. If you persist in annoying me I shall dun you for the money every time I see you."

The Colonel sat for a moment in deep thought. Finally he said: "Say, Bob, don't say anything more about that $10; lend me $5 more and take the girl."

The Cholera.

Cholera is a disease that comes and goes mysteriously. Although acting under some unknown law of nature, its movements are so rapid as to appear to be the result of chance. While leaving a long trail of death behind it as it sweeps over a line of cities, it will suddenly pass over entire districts and r appear on the other side of them and renew its fatal progress. It has baffled the ablest physicians in the world. They cannot tell whether it is in the air or in the water. All they know is that it is.

The most general opinion held by men who have had an opportunity of studying its characteristics in its natural home, the East Indies, is that the malady is born of germs that have sprung out of masses of decayed vegetable and animal matter played upon by a blazing sun; that these invisible germs are borne over the earth by the air currents, and that they have an affinity for places characterized by the decay and corruption whence they sprung. This theory is at least as plausible as any other, though occasionally those who hold that it belongs to bad water have their theory supported by such awful calamities as the one that took place a few years ago in Bengal.

On that occasion a train packed with natives started from Cawnpore for Lucknow, a ride of about six hours. When it arrived at its destination the sight presented to the officials was appalling. Hundreds of men and women were either dead or dying from cholera. Some survivors testified that the disease broke out almost immediately after a native passenger had handed round to a few of his acquaintances a drink of Ganges water from his lotah. For hours these wretched people had been packed in that train, surrounded by the revolting agonies of the dead and the dying, and several were taken out of it stricken, not with the disease, but with insanity.

The potato with all its eyes is the most susceptible of vegetables. It is easily mashed.

Reminiscences of Tom Thumb.

Tom Thumb was a brave little man. He had lots of presents in his pretty house in one of the prettiest of the New England towns, and some of these presents were most valuable. There was a snuff box from Prince Albert, the husband of Queen Victoria, presented to Tom Thumb when he was shown to the Court at Windsor. This he prized very highly, as well as a number of other elegant things which were given him by the nobility and gentry of Great Britain. On one occasion the knowledge that he kept these articles in his house created the undisguised envy of a party of burglars, who thought they would have an easy job with the small family, Tom was awakened at dead of night to the knowledge that burglars were in the lower rooms. His wife begged him to let them complete their work on the plea that his life was more valuable than all the gold and silver in the world. But the little man, who, though small in stature, had the courage of a giant, went to his bureau drawer, took out two handsomely chased revolvers—one was a gift from the Crown Prince of Prussia—and crept down to the parlor, where he saw two men busy at work on a safe constructed in the wall.

"Stop that," he said, quickly, "or here's a bullet for each of you."

The men turned round in alarm, and almost laughed to see the diminutive figure that stood a few feet off. One of them threatened him.

"If you make a step toward me I fire," said Tom, and they saw a revolver in each of his little hands.

"You're a plucky little fellow," exclaimed the other burglar, "and by—, I'll have nothing to do with this." Then addressing Tom. "If we go, will you keep quiet?"

"Leave my house," said Tom.

At this moment Mrs. Stratton, who had come down and saw the scene, screamed aloud. The two burglars thought no more about it, but made a rush and scrambled out of the window. In the flight one of them dropped a gold signet ring, which Tom was ever after proud to show as a memento of his encounter with burglars. He was never after molested.

Tom was very fond of sailing. Once he had a tiller and was skimming along the Sound with a party of friends. A four-year-old boy who was playing about the deck fell into the water. The mother screamed.

"Hold the tiller and bring her around," shouted Tom, and in an instant he was in the water swimming toward the drowning child, whom he had soon reached, and whom he held up in the water for fifteen minutes while the people on board bunglingly tried to get the thirty-foot boat around.

"It was said of Tom Thumb," remarked an actor yesterday, "that at the time of the Newhall House disaster in Milwaukee, Tom Thumb fled with his jewelry, leaving his wife behind. This is not true. She had fainted, and when they were found toward the foot of the stairs he was carrying her as well as he could, and would not let go when assistance arrived, so that both had to be carried out together. When he reached the street he fainted, too. But his pluck stood by him during the critical period, and saved his jewelry, too."

Tom Thumb used to say that he would give up all the money he made to be the size of an ordinary man, and this particularly the case when he would come across some cowardly bully. At one time he was so annoyed by insults leveled at himself and his wife by such people that he kept a "heeler" by him who on the slightest provocation would "clean out a crowd" in regular Sullivan style. This class soon found it out, and Tom had a quiet time of it.

He often spoke of his visit to England, and referred to the Queen and Prince Albert.

"The Prince of Wales," he said, was just about my size then, and seemed to take a vast interest in me. But the Queen was very kind, and seemed to be almost as much delighted as her son, then only a child. The impression made was so good that on two other occasions we were ordered to the Palace."

Tom was too good a Republican to be overcome by the honors showered upon him by royalty. His demeanor was not precisely bold but confident in the extreme. He was very young at the time. The Court of England was mostly made up of young people, Victoria's age being only about twenty-five. When he went back the last time all that was changed. He did not see the Queen at all, for she would indulge in no amusements, but the Prince of Wales, then just married, invited Tom Thumb and his wife to Marlborough House.

Tom Thumb was well off, but not actually rich, when he died. At one time his fortune was quite large, but it dwindled down in various speculations and he was compelled to take the road again. When he passed away he was worth fully $50,000, however, which was a good deal for such a small man.—N. Y. Journal.

Mr. Kingsley, Secretary Chandler's brother-in-law, is the survivor of a once large family, in which sudden death has been the rule. Out of nine who have died, not one was ill an entire week preceding death. One of the parents was killed by an accident and the other dropped dead with heart disease without a moment's warning. Four of the children died within a few days of scarlet fever, two others were burned to death on the steamer Henry Clay, and another was thrown from a carrriage.

The Action of the Heart.

As with each stroke the heart projects something like six ounces of blood into the conduits of the system, and as it does some 70 times every minute and 4200 times in an hour, this implies that it does the same thing 100,800 times in 24 hours, 30,000,000 times in a year, and more than 2,500,000,000 in a life of 70 years. The mechanical force that is exerted at each stroke amounts to a pressure of 13 pounds upon the entire charge of blood that has to be pressed onward through the branching network of vessels. According to the lowest estimate that has been made, this gives an exertion of force that would be adequate, in another form of application, to lift 120 tons one foot high every 24 hours. Yet the piece of living mechanism that is called upon to do this, and do it without a pause for threescore years and ten without being itself worn out by the effort, is a small bundle of flesh that rarely weighs more than eleven ounces. It is in the nature of the case, also, it must be remembered, that this little vital machine cannot at any time be stopped for repair. If it gets out of order it must be set right as it runs. To stop the beating of the heart for more than the briefest interval, would be to change life into death. The narrative of what medical science has done to penetrate into the secrets of this delicate force-pump, so jealously guarded from the intrusion of the eye that it cannot even be looked into until its action has ceased, is nevertheless a long history of wonders. By means of the spymograph—a writing style attached to the wrist by a system of levers and springs—the pulse is made to record actual autographs of cardiac and vascular derangement.—Edinburg Review.

Her Ma Was Always Too Awfully Funny.

Boston Post.

Not long ago, Gus De Smith proposed matrimony to Miss Birdie McHennepin. He proposed in good faith, in a solemn, impressive manner, upon which Miss Birdie inaugurated a giggle, until Gus was very much disgusted, and, arising from his knees, his anger found vent in words. He was mad, too—too mad almost to speak.

"Miss Hennepin," he finally ejaculated, "with me this is no laughing matter. Why should you see anything ridiculous about it?"

"You must excuse me, Mr. De Smith—really you must, for I am not laughing at you; really, now, I am not. I am laughing at ma. Ma's so funny, you known. Really, she is just too funny, for any use. Yes, I was laughing at ma."

"At your ma!"

"Yes. You see, ma she told me only this morning: 'Birdie, you are so green that some donkey will take you yet,' and here you come—"

But he was gone. He was in the past tense It was he who banged the door so violently.

"I wonder," cooed the suddenly deserted Birdie, "I wonder, now, really, is he is offended at what ma said. But then, ma always was too awful funny for any kind of use."

Skill With the Pistol.

From the New York Tribune.

An old gentleman was talking with a Tribune reporter yesterday about the recent rifle match and recalling the time when he used to catch up a pistol and shoot through key-holes and knot-holes without trouble. "You never saw Recorder Hackett shoot, did you?" said he, "Well, he was a great pistol shot. Men used to hold up pennies between their fingers for him to knock out. His daughter was accustomed to stand with a lemon on her head and her father would pierce it every time. Mrs. Horace Clark, a member of the Vanderbilt family, who was staying at the house, once held the lemon as a target for Mr. Hackett. One day Hackett and some friends were down on Long Island at a club house, and Hackett was amusing himself by shooting twigs off the trees. His father sat a little way off reading a newspaper and smoking a cigar. 'Now,' said Hackett, 'see me knock the ashes off his cigar.' He fired, and the ball whizzed between the paper and the cigar. The old man grumbled, but sat rigid. Another shot knocked the ashes clean off. That made the old gentleman disturbed, and he called out: "Oh, John, stop your fooling, can't you?"

Seventy-Six Years of Wedded Life.

A telegram from Donsville, N. Y., says that probably the oldest married couple in that state, if not in the Union, are Peter Bogart and wife, of that village. They are almost of an age to a day, each being nearly ninety-six. They have been married almost seventy-six years. Mrs. Bogart is in excellent health, but her husband is not physically strong. A sister of Mrs. Bogart lives with the couple. She is in her seventy-ninth year. Mr. and Mrs. Bogart celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of their marriage, when their descendants to the fifth generation were present. Delaware county seems to be conducive to longevity. A few weeks ago Aunt Polly Larkin, of Pease Eddy, died at the age of 107 years, and Cook St. John, of Deposit, was 103 when he died, two or three years ago. Mr. Bogart's sister mentioned above was not yet 4 years old when her brother was married, but she remembers the occasion. Mrs. Bogart walks a mile daily to see her oldest child, who is ill, a daughter 73 years old.

All Sorts.

As a matter of form a receiver is always appointed for a bank where the cashier has left nothing for anybody to receive.

The thief who stole a watch at a public meeting excused himself on the plea that he "was merely taking minutes of the affair."

"I see there are several spots on the son," said the father as he gazed on the face of his heir, on whom the mosquitoes had been feasting.

A London editor says Yankee girls look a man right in the face. Poor man! They were looking to see if there were any indications of ice cream.

"The difference," said Twistem, as he thumbed his glass on the bar, "between this glass and a locust, is simply that one is a beer-mug and the other is a mere bug."

An Indiana woman drinks nothing but black tea while she is in mourning. Such consistency is truly pathetic. But what a nerve she will have for her next husband.

Mrs. Summerbreeze's new girl was told to watch the turn-over for a few minutes; when the lady returned the turn-over was burned to a crisp, and the girl remarked: "Sure, I've watched it mum; but it hasn't turned over yet."

"My case is just here," said a citizen to a lawyer; "the plaintiff will swear that I hit him. I will swear that I did not. Now what can you lawyers make out of that if we go to trial?" "A hundred dollars, easy," was the reply.

"What'll poor mother do?" were the only words uttered by a Boston newsboy after being mortally wounded by a railroad train. A passenger had offered him half a dollar for a certain paper, and he was trying to hastily get it at a station when the accident occurred.

A railroad restaurant sandwich sent among some minerals to the Concord School of Philosophy puzzled that body more than a little. Finally the majority decided that it was a piece of rock from the paleozoic age, while the minority contended that it was a fragment of an exploded meteor.

Prof. Rudolph Virchow, one of the most eminent surgeons in Germany, got a box of pills from an apothecary, was cured of his sickness, and wrote a note stating the fact. Thereupon his medical society censured him, He has published a card saying that he can no longer "belong to a society that arrogates to itself the right of an arbitrary and offensive criticism."

"There are five persons in the car and only four fares in the box!" said the car driver as he opened the door. All the passengers looked up at each other, and the man who sat reading a paper slowly turned to his wife and queried: "Why, dear, didn,t you pay your own fare when we got on? You are becoming very absent-minded."

The French Government has introduced into elementary schools the study of dressmaking, and has provided means for the instruction of teachers, all expenses being defrayed for them, while they have in Paris a twenty days' course in lessons in cutting and fitting. Not merely are the pupils enabled to wear better dresses, but they are taught economy in material.

A St. Louis editor accidentally received in his morning mail proofsheets intended for the employes of a religious publication house, and after glancing over them rushed to the city editor yelling: "Why in the world didn't you get a report of that big flood? Even that slow old religious paper across the way is ahead of you. Send out your force for full particulars—only one family saved. Interview the old man. His name is Noah."

As to the success of complete isolation in preventing infection by cholera, the fact is quoted that in 1831 the court of Russia isolated itself at Peterhof as long as the epidemic continued. Round the imperial palace the pestilence made terrible ravages, but not one of ten thousand inhabitants of the palace was attacked. In 1855 the military school and a prison at Constantinople isolated themselves in the midst of the city full of cholera, and not a pupil nor a prisoner suffered. In the same year Sicily kept strictly isolated from all communication with the infected countries, and the island remained exempt from the terrible disease.

State Legislation.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 15.—In the senate Senator Sill offered a resolution of sympathy for Judge Black, and also highly eulogized his public career, which was unanimously adopted.

Senator Wallace moved that the house amenmdent to the senate resolution for final adjournment be concurred in, which was not agreed to.

In the house Mr. McNamara denied the report of a disagreement between himself and Senators Kennedy and Beddes.

The Governor Visits the Militia.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 14.—Governor Pattison and Major General Hartranft spent to-day in camp Humphreys with the third brigade of the national guard. The different commands were inspected during the day, and this evening each regiment was reviewed by the governor and General Hartranft. To-morrow a general review and parade through the city will take place.

A Cashier Sent to State's Prison.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Arthur H. Blaney, late cashier of the American Loan and Trust Company, was sentenced to seven years in the State Prison this afternoon for the embezzlement of $44,000 from that concern.

Life in Camp.

CAMP VAN HORN, August 14, 1883.

MR. EDITOR: Thinking that perhaps some of the people of Bellefonte would be glad to know of the whereabouts of the boys of the Bellefonte Fencibles, Co. B, Fifth Regiment, N. G. P., I have concluded to gratify them to the extent of my ability. The camp is beautifully located within a stone's throw of Conneaut Lake and is considered by all as desirable as could have been chosen. The fishing is good and boats with all the necessary fishing equipments can be obtained for the small sum of 25 cents per hour, and an ordinary fisherman can get from 50 to 100 speckled bass in that time all being of good size and of the best quality. Then the steamers are running to and from Evansburg every half hour with accommodations for from four to five hundred on board.

PERSONALS.

Corporal H. D. VanPelt has been detailed as commissary sergeant at regimental headquarters and dishes out the rations to the men as though he had been in the business for years.

Ned Chambers seems to think camping out is just the thing and wishes camp would last all the year.

Joe Gross fills the position of first sergeant with ease and is always at his post ready to assist the men whenever they require his aid.

George Johnston is as lively as a cricket and makes "Rome howl" when the spirit moves him.

"Billy" Tobias is on the war path and says if something is not done for him he will rebel.

Lt. Hale is rapidly losing avoirdupois and will no doubt return home, as Corporal Phillips will, resembling a shadow. He often remarks, as Gen. Grant did to Gen. Lee: "It's a long time between ——."

Captain Mullen is, without doubt, the handsomest officer in the Fifth regiment and makes a good officer of the day. Yours, &c.,

VENI, VIDI, VICI.

Our correspondent at "Camp Van Horn" writes us under date of Aug. 14 as follows: Yesterday's work was the hardest on the boys. They were out on battalion drill from 3 o'clock until 5, which tried our endurance to the utmost. But the boys never flinched. We then partook of our supper in haste and were ready for the dress parade and review, comprising the 5th, 10th, 14th, 15th, 16th and 18th regiments. Gen. Beaver and staff occupied a position on the right-centre of the parade ground and as each company passed to company front they presented a very fine appearance. When at last the noble Fifth came all eyes were centered upon them. Company B was first and passed with one of the best fronts in the Brigade and the best in the Fifth regiment. They received a terrific ovation. The pet regiment (14th) falls behind us.

Sunday was a quiet day in camp. Services were held by the 16th regiment, assisted by the brigade band and many citizens from the surrounding country, many ladies being in attendance. Here and there companies could be seen out upon drill and the regular routine of duties prevailed. At 6 o'clock battalion dress parade and review was called, which affords a very inspiring spectacle—the finest to be seen in the National Guard. Gen. Beaver's orders are loud and distinct and are instantly obeyed by 2800 men, who can be seen simultaneously performing some of the finest tactics to be witnessed anywhere.

Company B carried off the honors of the Fifth regiment for the finest marching and making the best wheel at the turning point. As the boys passed remarks and exclamations could be heard, such as, "Ah! that's the best yet!" "Good, boys, keep it up!" &c., accompanied by hurrahs and a clapping of hands. The opinion at regimental headquarters agrees with the general verdict. I tell you it is a cold day when Company B gets left. Of course, the boys all feel good over it.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

The boys pass the time away playing ball, fishing, rowing, etc. Jumbo, the monarch of elephants, passed down our streets last night.

In Dr. Geissinger the Fifth regiment has a good sergeant major. The Doctor makes a fine appearance as well as a good officer.

Major Hastings can be heard all over the camp. He is simply immense on a horse and is a grand addition to Gen. Beaver's staff.

Captain Mullen and Lieutenants Potter and Hale breakfasted on cat fish this morning, which were caught in the lake by Corporal Van Pelt.

Yours, VENI, VIDI, VICI.

"No Sir; I don't believe newspaper men are more dissipated than any other class of men who earn their living by their brains," said Mr. A. H. Siegfried, manager of the advertising department of the St. Paul Pioneer-Press. "Still those of them who do desk work are tempted to stimulate, for it's very hard on the nerves and stomach."

"As for example—?"

"As for example in my own case, I stuck to my desk on this paper until my nerves were like a bunch of telegraph wires after a gale, and my stomach kept about as good time as a two-dollar watch. My friends suggested this and the doctors advised that, but one day I caught on' to an 'ad.' of PARKER'S TONIC and tried it. I have never endorsed a proprietary medicine before, but I shall depart from my rule and say that the Tonic is not merely the best thing but the only thing that breaks up these attacks. All desk-workers should make a note of it."

This preparation, which has been known as PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, will hereafter be advertised and sold simply under the name of PARKER'S TONIC. As unprincipled dealers are constantly deceiving their customers by substituting inferior articles under the name of ginger, and as ginger is really an unimportant ingredient, we drop the misleading word.

There is no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles remaining in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, contain the genuine medicine if the fac-simile signature of HISCOX & Co. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper.

COURT PROCLAMATION.—Whereas, the Hon. Charles A. Mayer, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of the 25th judicial district, consisting of the Counties of Centre, Clinton and Clearfield, and the Hon. J. G. Larimer and the Hon. J. K. Runkle, Associate Judges in Centre county, having issued their precept, bearing date the 20th of July, A. D., 1883, to me directed, for holding a court of Over and Terminer and General Jail Delivery and Quarter Sessions of the peace in Bellefonte, for the County of Centre, and to commence on the fourth Monday of Aug. next, being the 27th day of August, 1883, and to continue two weeks, notice is hereby given to the Coroner, Justices of the Peace, Aldermen and Constables of said County of Centre, that they be then and there in their proper persons, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, with their records, inquisitions, examinations, and their own remembrances, to do those things which to their office appertains to be done, and those who are bound in recognizances to prosecute against the prisoners that are or shall be in the jail of Centre county, be then and there to prosecute against them as shall be just.

Given under my hand, at Bellefonte, the 20th day of July, in the year of our Lord, 1883, and in the one hundred and seventh year of the independence of the United States.

THOMAS J. DUNKEL, July28tf Sheriff.

DR. TUTT has succeeded in combining in these pills the heretofore antagonistic qualities of a STRENGTHING, PURGATIVE, and a PURIFYING TONIC.

Their first apparent effect is to increase the appetite by causing the food to properly assimilate. Thus the system is nourished, and by their tonic action on the digestive organs, regular and healthy evacuations are produced.

The rapidity with which PERSONS TAKE ON FLESH while under the influence of these pills, indicates their adaptability to nourish the body, hence their efficacy in curing nervous debility, melancholy, dyspepsia, wasting of the muscles, sluggishness of the liver, chronic constipation, and imparting health & strength to the system. LATEST TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

The Strike Ended.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—Three more striking telegraphers were restored to their positions here to-day, and four additional applications were received by Superintendent Baker, which will be favorably considered. Fourteen in all have left the ranks of the brotherhood within the past two days, one-half of whom will take positions outside of this city. It begins to look as though the strike had fallen to pieces in this locality. M. F. Shard, chief officer of the brotherhood of this district, is credited with having made the following statement: "I suspect we will have to go back again, say about the 1st, and work for about six months. We will have to disband the brotherhood, but will organize under a new name. After working about six months we will strike again, and keep striking—till we make our point. We will make it yet, sure as faith."

PITTSBURG, Aug. 17.—Thomas H. Hughes, secretary of the Brotherhood of Telegraphers, says that he received the following from New York this afternoon:

"Send the following to all assemblies: The executive board of the brotherhood regrets to say that the strike is a failure. All members who can may return to work immediately. A circular follows by mail.

(Signed) JOHN CAMPBELL."

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—The failure of the telegraphers' strike was first announced by the master workman at the meeting of the brotherhood held this evening. The men received the news very quietly. About thirty-five of the strikers called upon Manager Jones of the Western Union during the evening and made personal application for reinstatement, but all of them were told to make application in the regular way in the morning. Jones says he has but twenty vacancies in this city and believes there are sixty-five of the strikers still out.

Strikers Returning to Work.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 16.—The strike of the telegraph operators is virtually ended in this city. This afternoon five of the first class men returned to the Western Union office and resumed their work on the terms offered by the company and it is said others will return to-morrow. Last night at a meeting of the brotherhood, discontent was apparent but they refused any information. It is now said that the Knights of Labor did not respond as liberally as was expected and a surrender was necessary on the part of many of those who left their keys when the strike was inaugurated.

Judge Black's Death.

YORK, Pa., Aug. 19.—Judge Jeremiah Black died at ten minutes past 2 o'clock this morniug. Though not unexpected his death was sudden and was a shock to the community. On Saturday morning he seemed somewhat better, but the improvement was too slight to justify hope for his recovery. An unfavorable change began about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and he gradually grew worse, but remained conscious almost to the end and died peacefully. From the beginning of his illness Judge Black believed that he would never recover and was perfectly resigned. Mrs. Judge Black, Lieutenant Governor Chauncey F. Black and wife, Mr. Henry Black, Mr. and Mrs. Hornsby, A B. Farquahar and Dr. Missenhelder were present. Numerous telegrams of condolence have been received.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday 5 p. m. His remains will be interred at Prospect Hill cemetery. Dr. Powers, of the Christian Church, Washington, has been summoned and will probably officiate at the funeral. Shortly before Judge Black died he said to his wife: "How can I fear to cross the dark river when my father waits for me on the other shore," and added, "would I were as comfortable about all I leave behind unfinished in this world," and then breathed the following earnest prayer: "Oh, thou beloved and most merciful Heavenly Father, from whom I had my being and in whom I have ever trusted, if it be Thy will grant that my suffering end and that I speedily be called home to Thee; and O, my God, bless and comfort thee, my Mary."

At the Whirlpool Rapids.

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 16.—Capt. Rhodes came here to-day, and, in company with some Buffalo gentlemen, went to the Whirlpool Rapids. The big waves were pointed out to him, and one of the party said that it would be suicide to enter the rapids, armor or no armor, Capt. Rhodes indicated a few dangerous places, and said:

"Why, I can just play with that water. I don't think a man could get through alive without artificial assistance."

He was disappointed with the whirlpool. He thought he could even get through that.

David Young, at the whirlpool, said that he had seen great logs hurled upright in the current, and added. I told Capt. Webb, when he came here, that if he tried to make his swim he would be a subject for a Coroner, and I tell you the same."

Rhodes made a laughing answer. He said later that he had given up the idea of having a boat and a rope at the whirlpool entrance. No boat could live in the surf. He went to Buffalo to-night to get his armor. He will return to-morrow, and stay until after he makes the attempt, which will be some day next week. Chief of Police Canfield said he would arrest Rhodes if he tried to get into the water.

Killed while Returning from a Ball.

LANCASTER, Aug. 17.—A terrible accident, in which Adam Oblender, aged 21 years, lost his life, occurred at the Market street crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in this city, about half-past 3 o'clock this morning. The young man attended the ball in Mænnerchor Hall, which is on Prince street, but a short distance from the railroad. He started down the main track on his way home and at Market street, a few hundred feet west of the station, attempted to cross in front of engine No. 894, which was running at the rate of but six miles an hour. He was struck by the engine and thrown under the locomotive and one car, passed over him, cutting off both legs and terribly mangling the body He died almost instantly and the body was taken to the house of the young man's father, where an inquest was held. The Coroner's verdict was one of accidental death, exonerating the railroad company from blame. The deceased was a son of Adam Oblender, a well-known cigar manufacturer and prominent member of the Mænnerchor.

Two Robberies at Huntingdon.

HUNTINGDON, Aug. 17.—Two robberies were committed in this city last night. Wharton's shoe store, on Fifth street, was broken into through a front window, and Shaw's grocery store, on Washington street, was entered through a back window. Goods to a considerable amount were taken from each. These have been the only successful attempts out of many of the kind made here during the last ten days. There have been efforts within that time to break into several private residences north of Church street, and on the night before these robberies a man was discovered to be in the residence of Ex-Congressman H. G. Fisher, on Penn street, but on an alarm being given he fled. A gang of men, supposed to be tramps, have been prowling around the city for some days past and are suspected of committing the thefts.

One Hundredth Anniversary.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Aug. 16.—The one hundred and sixth anniversary of the battle of Bennington was celebrated here to-day by three large picnics—one under the auspices of the Father Matthew Total Abstinence Association, the second by the Union schools and a third by the Grand Army of the Republic. Excursion trains brought a large number of visitors. Addresses were made by the local clergy.

Three Hundred Pounds Cremated.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 19.—Charles Aultman, a clerk in the war department at Washington city, died at his residence in that place a few days since, and yesterday his body was cremated. He died of apoplexy, and as he weighed nearly three hundred pounds it was quite a difficult feat to get the remains into the retort. It took a much longer time than usual to reduce them to ashes. The only persons accompanying the corpse were a son of the deceased, C. F. Aultman, and a friend. They were here but a short time, probably not over half an hour. They did not care to stay over Sunday, and so took the evening train for home. The deceased was born in Germany in the year 1834. His ashes will be shipped on Monday next to the son, C. F. Aultman, who resides at No. 616 Massachusetts avenue, Washington, D. C.

The Giant Powder Explosion.

WINCHESTER, Ky., Aug. 19.—No further deaths have occurred from the effects of the terrible giant powder explosion Friday morning since those of Conductors McMichael and Martin. Charles Baker and Charles Johnson are very dangerously injured, and may not recover, but their chances are fair. Three others were known to be injured, but not fatally, and they are improving slowly. Nothing has ever been heard from the engineer on the passenger engine, and as a man's hand was picked up two hundred yards away, it is supposed that he was blown to atoms. All has become quiet now, and work on repairing the damage is progressing slowly. Hundreds of people have visited the scene. Great sympathy for the injured is expressed everywhere.

Hangings Yesterday.

COLUMBIA, S. C., August 17.—Perry Cely, colored, was executed at Greenwich to day for the murder of Perry Anderson, colored.

LITTLE ROCK, August 17.—Deno Cassal was hanged to-day for the murder of George Barnes, time-keeper in the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern railroad shops, at Argenta.

CHATTANOOGA, August 17.—Taylor Banks, colored, was hanged at Scottsboro, Alabama, to day, for the murder of Turner Woods, a wealthy colored man.

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 17.—A. N. Perrin, manager of the Tidewater pipe line company, limited, who is sojourning here, said to night that the report that the Tidewater pipe line had been abandoned by the Standard oil company was wholly untrue.

Apprehensive of Another Earthquake.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—There are alarming signs of an earthquake in Serrara, on the island of Ischia. The springs are drying up and smoke is issuing from the fissures in the ground. The minister of public works has issued an order for the immediate erection of huts for the accommodation of the people in case they are compelled to vacate their houses.

No Prospect of a Change.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—J. E. Morse the manager in this city of the Tidewater pipe company, states that there is no truth in the report that the standard oil company had obtained control of the Tidewater line and that there is not the slightest prospect of a change in the management of the Tide Water line.

Judge Black's Condition.

YORK, Pa., Aug. 15.—There was no perceptible change in the condition of Judge Black to-day. At nine o'clock this evening he was resting easily under the influence of opiates. Dr. Garret, of Washington, arrived this evening.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

Soldiers' Reunion.

Mr. George Tate, of this place, is a member of the executive committee of an organization formed by the survivors of the 110th P. V. The organization was effected on the 26th of September of last year, Captain Chas. Copelin, of Altoona being the president. The next reunion will be held at Huntingdon on Friday, October 5. Part of the 2d and 9th cavalry and 125th P. V. are expected to unite with the 110th in the reunion. To make this reunion a successful and pleasant one it is hoped all who possibly can will be present. It is impossible for the Secretary to reach all the surviving members of these regiments. Those receiving circulars are therefore requested to extend the invitation to any who may not receive one.

Open all Night.

After this date the central telephone office will be kept open all night, a night operator having been secured to take charge. This step is made necessary by the increasing business of the service, and will be a very great accommodation to the patrons.

—A great surprise awaits those who traverse the eastern side of Spring street between Howard and High. The pavement in front of the residence of Mr. Isaac Lose is actually being repaired.

—Mr. H. B. Marshall, whose foot was injured at Tyrone a week ago, died on Sunday night.

All Aboard for the Gettysburg Encampment.

The encampment at Gettysburg, this year, will be of unusual importance to soldiers and all others. It opens August 25 and closes August 31. The best time to go from Centre county is on the morning of Friday, August 24, via Tyrone, arriving in Gettysburg at 5 p. m. and allowing a stop of two and one half hours in Harrisburg. Tickets are good on any train and on any day for leaving home from Friday until Tuesday. Any train can also be taken to return home. Boarding can be had outside or inside the camp at from $1 to $1.25 per day, including lodging. Tents will be provided for all who may wish to camp out, and all who stay in tents can get boarding even cheaper than the above as no charge is made for tents. Tents can also be had at suitable places in the camp for cooking purposes, for all who may wish to furnish their own provisions and do their own cooking. Very many take their families there and remain in camp living in tents during the entire encampment. The department provides straw for the tents, but all wishing to stay in camp must have blankets, towels, soap, &c., as none of these are furnished. The tents are hospital tents, quite large, holding twelve or fourteen persons very comfortably. They are entirely new. It is a delightful resort in which to spend a week or more and is beautifully situated. But the historic associations of the spot constitute its chief attraction. There fell and now sleep thousands of gallant dead. The opportunity is given but once a year to meet there during encampment, and all who can possibly do so should avail themselves of it. Any person, whether a member of the Grand Army or not, can buy a ticket this year. There are no restrictions whatever. Tickets will be sold at all the principal railroad stations in the State, but for Bellefonte and vicinity they will be sold only at Bellefonte and Spring Mills—Bellefonte $6.54, Spring Mills $5.07, the round trip. If any persons going who wish to have quarters assigned them in the camp, or boarding and lodging either in the camp or in town will notify any member of the committee given below, arrangements for them will be cheerfully made. Railroad tickets will also be procured if desired.

State College Comments.

A very kind friend at State College writes the reporter of the News as follows:

There is very little transpiring at State College at present, but a little is better than nothing, and such as it is I send you. There are indications that our village will grow in importance as quite a number of dwellings are being erected, among which we notice that the foundations for a fine dwelling have already been commenced by the Rev. Dr. Wilson o Warriors Mark.

John Stuart's new house on Richmond Hill is now completed. It presents a pleasing appearance.

J. & J. Stuart are about to commence the erection of a new store room, which will be completed and ready for use next Spring. Miflin Snyder, of Pine Grove, will take possession of the old room at present occupied by Stuart & Bro.

Profs. Barnard and Osman, of the College, are erecting a new residence on Buckout Hill.

We are glad to note that Prof. John Heston has almost entirely recovered from his recent illness which he contracted in the West. S.

School Tax.

The complaints made in the Daily News of Friday, claiming that the school board were too previous in their action of effecting a collection of tax, etc., has attracted my attention

The section referred to in the school laws, it is true, is a nice thing for the rich tax payer, as his ready money will furnish him means of saving five per cent; but it is not so nice for the poor tax payer, who, by his lack of ready money, cannot avail himself of this opportunity, and has to pay an additional five per cent and costs, because he could not raise the money to pay his taxes on the first one or two months after the duplicate is out. (School Laws, page 98, section 57.) The same provision is also made by the Town Council for the collection of borough taxes. The matter referred to in Friday's News, in regard to giving tax payers an opportunity to pay their taxes in a certain time, and save five per cent. is optional with the school board and may be found in School Laws, page 98, section 53, where it says "by resolution of the board, etc."

TAX PAYER.

Fired Up.

The glass works are again in operation, the furnace having been fired up on Thursday, after lying idle two months. The works start in very auspiciously, perhaps more so from the fact that some of the ladies of town assisted in the "opening exercises," Mrs. Munson, wife of the superintendent, and Miss Bertie Alexander applying the match which fired the furnace, and sent volumes of smoke rolling skyward. As a matter of course, the works will sail along smoothly now.

Some Snakes.

While Mrs. Geiswite, wife of Mr Henry Geiswite, of Potter township was out blackberrying recently, accompanied by her daughter, they came upon a huge black snake that had climbed into the top of a high bush. The reptile immediately descended to the ground and opened hostilities. As was natural, the ladies were considerably frightened at first, but Miss Geiswite plucked up her courage and with the aid of a club succeeded in "knocking his snakeship out," from which crawled sixty-three little wrigglers about six inches long each, all in fighting trim and ready to defend the remains of their slain mother. This is a true story and we regard it as the best one of the season, and shall claim the championship until some other county goes one better.

ELEVENTH LETTER.

LUCERNE, SWITZERLAND, July 26, 1883.

Lucerne is most delightfully situated on the beautiful banks of Lake Lucerne. Aside from its picturesque situation, its chief attraction is the monument of the Lion, a most impressive work of art, erected in 1821 to the memory of the officers and soldiers of the Swiss Gaurd who fell in the defense of the Tuileries on the 20th of Aug., 1792. The dying lion (28 feet in length), reclining in a grotto, transfixed by a broken lance, and sheltering the Bourbon lily with its paw, is hewn out of the natural sand-stone rock after a model by the celebrated sculptor Thorvaldsen. The rock itself is overhanging with trees and vines, and a spring of water flows down on one side and forms a beautiful pool at the base.

The city is enclosed by well preserved walls and watch-towers erected in 1385. It is claimed that the Lake of Lucerne is unsurpassed in Switzerland, and even in Europe, in beautiful and magnificent scenery. The steamer affords the most picturesque view of the city, with its towers and amphitheatre-like forms, while to the left rises the Rigi, to the right Pilatas, and facing is the snow clad Alps.

The lake is memorable, too, on account of its association with the heroic legends of William Tell. Lucerne is the most thronged with tourists of any place we have yet visited. The Rigi is the most popular mountain in Europe. Visitors resort here from all parts of the world to see the sun rise and set, together with the grand and magnificent view afforded in a circuit of nearly three hundred miles. We neither saw the sun rise nor set, and nearly froze to death besides, but after sun-rise the clouds lifted, and gradually the mighty prospect was revealed to us, and we stood enchanted. The lakes of Lucerne and Zug were at the foot of the mountain, and eleven other lakes were visible to the naked eye. Lucerne and Zurich and many other towns are seen, and the tremendous range of the snow-clad Alps is wonderful to behold. And the green valleys are most lovely in their rich and luxuriant verdure. We shivered a good deal, but we enjoyed much more this stupendous panorama.

We go from Lucerne to Zurich, and from thence to Schaffhousen to view the falls of the Rhine. From thence we will journey towards Vienna, which city we will undoubtedly reach before this letter reaches you. As this trip to Europe is intended more for study than for holiday and travel, we expect to commence work as soon as we arrive at Vienna. And if my letters become less frequent, or cease entirely, you may know we are otherwise engaged. We have received since leaving home but one copy of the Republican, June 20th, also but one copy of the Watchman, June 22nd. We are quite disappointed in consequence, as we are fond of our home papers.

T. R. HAYES.

Children and Horses Stung by Bees.

On Monday, August 14, a peculiar and very serious accident occurred near Curtin's Works in this county. Mr. William Shalley is a prosperous farmer in that vicinity. On the day mentioned his three children were seated in a large farm wagon to which was attached two spirited horses, the only other occupant of the wagon being the hired man. In driving through the yard, not far from the house, the wagon struck a heavy plank on which was a hive of bees. The concussion upset the hive and the bees flew out swarming upon the heads of the children and stinging them frightfully. Mrs. Shalley ran to the rescue of her children, succeeding in getting them into the house where many of the bees followed, still attacking the children. Large numbers of the bees also attacked the horses. The animals fought them with their mouths, the bees stinging their tongues terribly. Although Mr. and Mrs. Shalley fought the fierce and angry bees, they could not expel them from the house until they had built a great fire and filled the house with smoke. Neither could they be driven from the horses until the hired man had built a fire under the animals, the smoke chasing them away. One of the horses has since died from the effects of the injuries received and the tongue of the other swelled until it bursted. The children have been in a dangerous condition ever since although hopes of their recovery are entertained.

—An infant son of Mr. James Chambers, of Thomas street, died a few days ago and was buried on Monday. The remains were taken to Pleasant Gap for interment. The little one was about 3 months old.

—Mr. James Huston, son of the late Thomas Huston, of this county, and also a brother of Mrs. Dr. Hartswick, of Clearfield, died at Burlington, Kansas, on Thursday, August 2.

RE-INVESTIGATED.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT FULLY CONFIRMED BY THREE IMPORTANT INTERVIEWS.

An unusual article from the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle was published in this paper recently and has been the subject of much conversation both in professional circles and on the street. Apparently it caused more commotion in Rochester, as the following from the same paper shows:

Dr. J. B. Henion, who is well known not only in Rochester, but in nearly every part of America, sent an extended article to this paper a few days since, which was duly published, detailing his remarkable experience and rescue from what seemed to be certain death. It would be impossible to enumerate the personal enquiries which have been made at our office as to the validity of the article, but they have been so numerous that further investigation was deemed an editorial necessity.

With this end in view a representative of this paper called on Dr. Henion at his residence, when the following interview occurred:

"That article of yours, doctor, has created quite a whirlwind. Are the statements about the terrible condition you were in, and the way you were rescued such as you can sustain?"

"Every one of them and many additional ones. Few people ever get so near the grave as I did and then return, and I am not surprised that the public think it marvelous. It was marvelous."

"How in the world did you, a physician, come to be brought so low?"

"By neglecting the first and most simple symptoms. I did not think I was sick. It is true I had frequent headaches; felt tired most of the time; could eat nothing one day and was ravenous the next; felt dull, indefinite pains, and my stomach was out of order, but I did not think it meant anything serious."

"But have these common ailments anything to do with the fearful Bright's disease which took so firm a hold on you?"

"Anything! Why, they are the sure indications of the first stages of that dreadful malady. The fact is, few people know or realize what ails them, and I am sorry to say that too few physicians do either."

"That is a strange statement, doctor."

"But it is a true one. The medical profession have been treating symptoms instead of diseases for years, and it is high time it ceased. We doctors have been clipping off the twigs when we should strike at the root. The symptoms I have just mentioned or any unusual action or irritation of the water channels indicate the approach of Bright's disease even more than a cough announces the coming of consumption. We do not treat the cough, but try to help the lungs. We should not waste our time trying to relieve headache, stomach, pains about the body or other symptoms, but go directly to the kidneys, the source of most of these ailments."

"This, then, is what you meant when you said that more than one-half the deaths which occur arise from Bright's disease, is it, doctor?"

"Precisely. Thousands of so-called diseases are torturing people to-day, when in reality it is Bright's disease in some one of its many forms. It is a Hydra-headed monster and the slightest symptoms should strike terror to every one who has them. I can look back and recall hundreds of deaths which physicians declared at the time were caused by paralysis, apoplexy, heart disease, pneumonia, malarial fever and other common complaints which I see now were caused by Bright's disease."

"And did all these cases have simple symptoms at first?"

"Every one of them, and might have been cured as I was by the timely use of the same remedy—Warner's Safe Cure. I am getting my eyes thoroughly open in this matter and think I am helping others to see the facts and their possible danger also. Why, there are no end of truths bearing on this subject. If you want to know more about it go and see Mr. Warner himself. He was sick the same as I, and is the healthiest man in Rochester to-day. He has made a study of this subject and can give you more facts than I can. Go, too, and see Dr. Lattimore, the chemist at the University. If you want facts there are any quantity of them showing the alarming increase of Bright's disease, its simple and deceptive symptoms, and there is but one way by which it can be escaped."

Fully satisfied of the force and truth of the Doctor's words, the reporter bade him good day and called on Mr. Warner at his establishment on Exchange street. At first Mr. Warner was inclined to be reticent, but learning that the information desired was about the alarming increase of Bright's disease, his manner changed instantly and he spoke very earnestly.

"It is true that Bright's disease has increased wonderfully, and we find, by reliable statistics, that in the past ten years its growth has been 250 per cent. Look at the prominent men it has carried off: Everett, Sumner, Chase, Wilson, Carpenter, Bishops Haven and Peck, and others. This is terrible, and shows a greater growth than that of any other known complaint. It should be plain to every one that something must be done to check this increase or there is no knowing where it may end."

"Do you think many people are afflicted with it who do not realize it, Mr. Warner?"

"Hundreds of thousands. I have a striking example of this truth which has just come to my notice. A prominent professor in a New Orleans medical college was lecturing before his class on the subject of Bright's disease. He had various fluids under microscopic analysis, and was showing the students what the indications of this terrible malady were. In order to show the contrast between healthy and unhealthy fluids, he had provided a vial, the contents of which were drawn from his own person. 'And now, gentlemen,' he said, 'as we have seen the unhealthy indications, I will show you how it appears in a state of perfect health,' and he submitted his own fluid to the usual test. As he watched the results his countenance suddenly changed—his color and command both left him, and in a trembling voice he said: 'Gentlemen, I have made a painful discovery; I have Bright's disease of the kidneys,' and in less than a year he was dead."

"You believe, then, that it has no symptoms of its own and is frequently unknown even by the person who who is afflicted with it?"

"It has no symptoms of its own and very often none at all. Usually no two people have the same symptoms, and frequently death is the first symptom. The slightest indication of any kidney difficulty should be enough to strike terror to any one. I know what I am talking about, for I have been through all the stages of kidney disease."

"You know of Dr. Henion's case?"

"Yes, I have both read and heard of it."

"It is very wonderful, is it not?"

"A very prominent case but no more so than a great many others that have come to my notice as having been cured by the same means."

"You believe then that Bright's disease can be cured?"

"I know it can. I know it from the experience of hundreds of prominent persons who were given up to die by both their physicians and friends."

"You speak of your own experience, what was it?"

"A fearful one. I had felt languid and unfitted for business for years. But I did not know what ailed me. When, however, I found it was kidney difficulty, I thought there was little hope, and so did the doctors. I have since learned that one of the physicians of this city pointed me out to a gentleman on the street one day, saying, 'there goes a man who will be dead within a year.' I believe his words would have proven true if I had not fortunately secured and used the remedy now known as Warner's Safe Cure."

"And this caused you to manufacture it?"

"No, it caused me to investigate. I went to the principal cities, saw physicians prescribing and using it and I therefore determined, as a duty I owed humanity and the suffering to bring it within their reach, and now it is known in every part of America, is sold in every drug store and has become a household necessity."

The reporter left Mr. Warner, much impressed with the earnestness and sincerity of his statements and next paid a visit to Dr. S. A. Lattimore at his residence on Pine street. Dr. Lattimore, although busily engaged upon some matters connected with the State Board of Health, of which he is one of the analysts, courteously answered the questions that were propounded him:

"Did you make a chemical analysis of the case of Mr. H. H. Warner some three years ago, Doctor?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did this analysis show you?"

"The presence of albumen and tube casts in great abundance."

"And what did the symptoms indicate?"

"A serious disease of the kidneys."

"Did you think Mr. Warner could recover?"

"No, sir. I did not think it possible. It was seldom, indeed, that so pronounced a case had, up to that time, ever been cured."

"Do you know anything about the remedy which cured him?"

"Yes, I have chemically analyzed it and upon critical examination find it entirely free from any poisonous or deleterious substances."

We publish the foregoing statements in view of the commotion which the publicity of Dr. Henion's article has caused and to meet the the protestations which have been made. The standing of Dr. Henion, Mr. Warner and Dr. Lattimore in the community is beyond question and the statements they make cannot for a moment be doubted. They conclusively show that Bright's disease of the kidneys is one of the most deceptive and dangerous of all diseases, that it is exceedingly common, alarmingly increasing and that it can be cured.

Business Notices and Other Items.

We have just received our new Fall and Winter Woolens. Call and leave your order. MONTGOMERY & Co., Tailors.

—Chester A. Arthur and Phil Sheridan are enjoying themselves in the Yellowstone Park. Cracking champagne bottles, angling for trout, shooting bears and antelope are their amusements. They were much surprised last Saturday to see a sign painted on the side of one of the mountains in the park which read "Bellefonte, Centre county, Pa., has the finest grocery store in the country. It is kept by Sechler, and Centre county people who patronize the store will soon become rich and independent."

—Sunday was a charming day and everybody spent as much time as possible in the open air.

—One of the first duties of a Centre county man is to buy all his groceries at Sechler's store.

—Watermelons and fruit constitute the principal diet and, as they are wholesome, the consumers should thrive.

—A couple who were happily married the other day first fell in love while buying groceries at Harry Teats & Co.'s store. Moral—Let all the unmarried ladies and gentlemen in Centre county patronize Harry Teats & Co.

—The Y. M. C. A. of this place conducted an interesting service in the union church at Boiling Springs on Sunday evening.

—Lightning never strikes twice in the same place, but those who buy groceries once of Harry Teats & Co. always buy a hundred times in the same place.

FOR SALE CHEAP.—A second-hand piano in good condition. Inquire of Wm. Burnside, Bellefonte, Pa. 32 1

—A certain excellent lady living on Thomas street gave her "better half" the benefit of a curtain lecture last Saturday. "There," said she, "the cake is as heavy as lead, the current jelly is too thin, the coffee is tasteless and the canned fruit isn't fit to eat, just because you didn't order your groceries at Sechler's store. Now, Paul Henry, you may control your children and manage your business office, but I shall boss the cooking department of this establisement or leave it altogether." He believes she was in earnest, so he kissed her affectionately and promised to purchase groceries at Sechler's store hereafter.

—A foreign letter postmarked "Glasgow," and addressed "Mr. Adam J. Barr, Centre Co., Pa., America," awaits a claimant in the Bellefonte postoffice.

—The groceries at Sechler's store "take the cake" every time. They will also make the cake if there is a skilled cook present to measure out the proper ingredients and a good oven in which to bake it.

—We are greatly indebted to Messrs. John Bartruff and Washington Rees and to Dr. Geissinger for courtesies extended to us during the recent encampment of the Second Brigade.

—Harry Teats & Co. will be glad to welcome 2000 customers at their grocery store next week.

—The Paragons, says the L. H. Journal, wouldn't mind a game with the Eurekas, of Bellefonte.

—For fresh, sweet, pure groceries go to Harry Teats & Co.

THE LATEST NEWS.

A Failure in New York City.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Intense excitement was caused on Wall street and in the Stock Exchange to-day by the announcement of the failure of George William Ballou & Co., bankers. The firm is composed of William H. Bingham, board member, David A. Darling, George William Ballou and Allan S. Wells. No definite particulars could be obtained. The house did a large and extensive business, and its customers were principally bank presidents throughout the country, Boston capitalists and New England states? Ballou refuses to make any statement concerning the suspension, other than it was caused by the failure of the customers to respond to calls for margins.

Another member of the firm said the trouble was merely temporary, and that everything would be straightened out in a few days. The principal stocks carried by the firm were Ontario and Western, Missouri Pacific and Western Union. It is roughly estimated that their liabilities will amount to between $400,000 and $500,000. Under the stock exchange rule relating to failures, all of the stocks carried by the firm were sold at the exchange. Prices are not materially affected, but there was no end to rumors and excitement. It is said that the failure will seriously cripple several other houses on the street.

The Watkins' Regatta.

WATKINS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—In the first trial heat of the professional boat race Wallace Ross, Plaistead, Griffin, Lee and Courtney started at 10.46 a. m., in the order named. Ross took water first and got a fine lead, Plaisted second, Lee third, Courtney fourth, Griffin fifth. Courtney drew up to third very easily and in fine style of steady stroke, and was soon contesting for the second position in the mile and a half straight away heat, but Lee steered toward the outside and almost across Courtney's course, so that at half a mile they had almost locked oars and Courtney had virtually ceased to exert himself. They rowed alongside thus for nearly a mile before Lee would take his own course. At one time it appeared as if Lee would get the lead, but if he held it momentarily, it was not longer for Ross won in 10.42 by a half length, Lee, second; Courtney, third. The latter was at least a length in the rear of Ross. The crowd bowled in disappointment, as it was evident this would shut Courtney out of the second trial heat, and so out of any contest with Hanlan.

In the second heat, professional scullers, Hanlan was an easy winner in 11:30. Hosmer, second; Teemer, third; Tenayck, fourth; Shanlaw last.

Hanlan won the professional race this afternoon, three miles and a turn, in 21 minutes and 9 seconds. He was three lengths ahead of Hosmer, who was second. Wallace Ross came in a good third. Lee was shut out.

Discharges from the Reading Car Shops.

READING, Aug. 12.—Owing to scarcity of work in the paint shops of the Reading Railroad Company about twenty-five men were suspended for an indefinite period at the close of work yesterday. About a dozen machinists were also suspended from the shops at Seventh and Chestnut, and it may be several months before they can return to work. In addition to these, forty blacksmiths were put off for one week. These suspensions have been going on alternately for months. Many attribute the dullness and scarcity of work to the company's giving large contracts to the Baldwin Locomotive Works, at Philadelphia.

A Girl's Death from Hydrophobia.

WEST CHESTER, Aug. 13.—Yesterday morning Mary, an eleven-year-old daughter of John Ortlip, residing in West Bradford township, Chester county, died of hydrophobia after enduring agonies of a distressing character for over twenty-four hours. The child was bitten by a strange dog some five years ago, but at the time nothing serious was feared, though the dog was discovered to be mad a little while afterward and was killed. On Saturday morning last the child, while at breakfast, was suddenly taken with spasms while endeavoring to drink coffee, and though the best of medical skill was brought to bear upon the case she continued to suffer until Sunday morning, when death came to her relief. The bite was over the right eye and was a very trifling one.

The Reading's Upward Jump.

READING, Aug. 14.—The business of the Reading Railroad Company, passenger and freight, is better now than ever before known. At Pottstown, Bridgeport, Manayunk and this city as many as six additional tracks have been put down to accommodate business. The Little Schuylkill, the Catawissa and other roads which make the northern connection with the Vanderbilt system are taxed to their greatest capacity by the freight traffic. The through passenger trains going north on the main line frequently contain thirteen well filled coaches. The Marietta branch of the Reading and Columbia railroad, extending from Marietta junction, one and a half miles west of Landisville, to Chickies, was opened for general business yesterday. The way stations are Copenheffer and Florinel.

Hotel Devon Burned.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—The hotel Devon, a fashionable summer hotel on the line of the Pennsylvania railroad, about eighteen miles from this city, was burned to the ground about 10 o'clock this morning. The fire was caused by a defective flue in the kitchen and broke out shortly before 9 o'clock while the guests were at breakfast. There was a limited supply of water which was used without avail. The flames spread rapidly and at 10.15 there was nothing left but several large chimneys. No one was injured and all the property of the guests with a few exceptions was saved. Nearly all the furniture was lost. The hotel which was called the Devon Inn, was opened May 29, by Crump Bros. It was a large picturesque building, of English architectural style, erected on a knoll about a mile southwest of what was formerly Eagle station, on the Pennsylvania railroad. The property was owned by Coffin, Altemus & Co., dry goods merchants of Philadelphia and the hotel was operated by the Crumps, who run the Cotonade hotel in Philadelphia. The main building was only finished last year, and the place became such a fashionable resort for wealthy Philadelphians that a large new building was erected this year; adjoining property advanced in value, new residences are being erected in the vicinity, and a handsome new railroad is being built at the place.

Killed and Injured.

READING, Pa., Aug. 13.—A frightful explosion took place in a quarry at Glasgow, near Pottstown, shortly after 7 o'clock this morning by which two men were killed and a number wounded. The men were engaged in drilling out a blast that had failed to discharge. They neglected putting in sufficient water while drilling, when suddenly a frightful explosion followed, and the men were hurled back and thrown some distance by the rocks. William Lippincott was nearly torn to pieces and died at 9 o'clock William A. Mutter was badly lacerated. His head was torn, his left leg was broken and his body wounded by small stones. He died after amputation Oscar Hill was hurt by a flying rock. A. L. Bair was knocked over by a frightened horse in the quarry and hurt. Lippincott was forty-three years of age, and leaves a wife and three children, the youngest five years of age. Mutter is about thirty-two, and has a wife and five children, the youngest about two months old.

The Spectacle of Devastation.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., Aug. 13.—Thousands of people visited the scene of the fire in Vineyard Haven on Sunday and all day long wandered about gazing at the spectacle of devastation. The scores of homeless ones unprovided for will be cared for temporarily by the relief committee. At the tabernacle and temple at Cottage City last night about $1,200 was raised to aid the sufferers by the fire, and the residents of Vineyard Haven gave about $400, making $1,600 subscribed on the island yesterday. A committee was selected at the tabernacle meeting to canvass Cottage City for additional subscriptions in aid of the needy. Many persons are already arranging to rebuild.

Opposed to Church Organs.

PITTSBURG, August 15.—The national convention anti-organ faction of the united Presbyterian church reassembled in Allegheny city this morning. After devotional exercises Rev. James Price, of Philadelphia, presented a series of resolutions in effect that the propriety of holding local conventions similar to this one and of forming an association for the maintenance of the principles and especially of the purity of the worship of the church demand serious consideration and attention. The resolutions were referred to a committee. Dr. William Wishart, of Hayesville, Ohio, said he was conscientiously opposed to instrumental music, and rather than give up his views of duty would give up affiliation with the brethren in the church and go where organs are not used. Said he, "the organs will put us out of the church or we will put them out."

Gen. Grosvenor Hooted by a Mormon Mob.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 14.—Last night Gen. Grosvenor of Ohio was serenaded by the Sixth Infantry band, and responded in a speech which had the true American ring. As usual the Mormon mob was on hand, and attempted to drown his voice with cries of "Liar!" and similar demonstrations. Gen. Grosvenor, however, continued his remarks, and was cheered by the members of the band and other Gentiles present. It looked very much as though a riot would be the result.

Councilman Gilmore Dead.

WILLIAMSPORT, Aug. 12.—Joseph Gilmore, member of Select Council from the Eighth ward, died this evening from injuries received Wednesday morning by being knocked down and trampled by a runaway horse on the street. Mr. Gilmore was born in Northumberland county March 4, 1804, but had resided here for over half a century.

A Handsome Statue for San Francisco.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 12.—D. V. Mills has presented the State with a magnificent piece of statuary, representing Columbus at the Court of Queen Isabella. The work of art is nine feet high and cost $35,000. It will be placed in the rotunda of the capitol at Mr. Mills' expense.

A very Bright little Planet.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—Prof. C. H. F. Peters of Clinton has announced to the Harvard College Observatory the discovery by him, on the night of the 12th inst., of a new planet. Its position at the time of its discovery was: Right ascension, 21 hours 28 minutes and 48.17 seconds; declination south, 12 degrees 29 minutes and 8.2 seconds. The daily motion is minus 36 seconds in right ascension, and in declination 20 minutes and 50 seconds south. It is unusually bright for an asteroid, being of the ninth magnitude.

It will Cost You Nothing to get from Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1109 Girard street, Philadelphia, an honest opinion in your case, if you are suffering from any chronic disease, as consumption, catarrh, neuralgia, rheumatism or nervous irritability and weakness. They are making wonderful cures with their new Compound Oxygen Treatment. Write to them and give a clear statement of your case. They will answer promptly as to the chances of a cure. They make no charge for consultation. If, however, you do not wish to consult them at present, drop a postal card, asking for their treatise on Compound Oxygen, in which you will find a history of its discovery, nature and action, and a large number of reports of difficult and desperate cases which they have treated successfully.

Opinion of Dr. Mott, late Government Chemist, on Allcock's Porous Plaster.

My investigation of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER shows it to contain valuable and essential ingredients not found in any other plaster. These ingredients are so perfectly proportioned that the Allcock's Porous Plaster will not cause blisters or excessive irritation, and I find it superior to and more efficient than any other plaster.

A Railroad Trestle on Fire.

MOUNTAIN GROVE, Aug. 14.—The trestle works between here and Rock Glen, on the Sunbury and Hazleton Railroad, caught fire last night and destroyed several railroad ties and the large stringers spanning the west side of the cut. Trains were delayed six hours. A large force of workmen were soon on hand and travel has been resumed.

ARE THE KIDNEYS "VITAL ORGANS!"—Decidedly, yes. Without them life is impossible, and they appear to be peculiarly susceptible to severe and fatal derangements. They are, moreover, exceedingly difficult to treat, and the ailments affecting them are liable to end at any time in Bright's Disease. In our opinion, formed upon the conclusions of many skilled physicians, Hunt's Remedy, the great kidney and liver Medicine, is the best ever administered for kidney, bladder, liver and urinary diseases. It cures like a magic spell.

The Francklyn Cottage on Fire.

LONG BRANCH, Aug. 14.—A defective flue caught fire in the cottage of Charles G. Francklyn, at Elberon last night, but the flames were extinguished before any serious damage was done. This is the cottage in which President Garfield died.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth! If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. 15 22 1y

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning? The signal, perhaps, of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50 cents to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a million bottles were sold the past year. It relieves Croup and Whooping Cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. For sale by John Harris.

—Among the enterprises in the borough of Philipsburg is one which was put in motion by Mr. John D. Gill, blacksmith and manufacturer of miner's tools. He is putting a large engine into his blacksmith shop. There is a probability also that Mr C. K. Essington, formerly of Milesburg, will begin the manufacture of axes in connection with the same establishment and he is now making arrangements for that purpose.

—The residents of Penn street are up in arms because of the negligence of the borough authorities in enforcing the ordinance compelling people to repair pavements and boardwalks. The poorer residents of the street have willingly complied with the ordinance, but wealthier property owners have neglected to do so. However, residents of that street are determined that the ordinance shall be enforced on all alike.

—Mr. C. H. Davis, of Philipsburg, started from that place on a bicycle at 7 a. m. on Tuesday, August 14th, reaching Bellefonte at 3 p. m. the same afternoon and attracting quite a large crowd around him. The distance, twenty-eight miles, was made in eight hours. He went to Snow Shoe the same evening on the train, taking his bicycle along, and expecting to return to Bellefonte on it the next day. The rain, however, interfered with the last part of the programme.

—A game of base ball came off on Monday of last week on the planing mill pond commons between the Eurekas and a nine from the Bush House, including the gentlemen boarders at the hotel, among whom were several persons from a distance. The Eurekas say they played the New York, Brooklyn, and Bellefonte nines combined, the game resulting in their favor by a score of 6 to 12. If we may judge by the score, the Bush House nine played excellently as Hughes pitched and Garrett caught for the Eurekas, rendering them formidable opponents.

DEMOCRATS.

The "Unterrified" of Centre County Meet in Convention.

On Tuesday, August 14, the Democrats of Centre county assembled in regular county convention in the Court House in this place. There were not so many of them as we expected to see; nor were they as enthusiastic or noisy as usual; indeed, there seemed to be a lack of any ebullition of feeling.

They were happy in the choice of a chairman in the person of that popular gentleman, Hon. C. T. Alexander, who in taking the chair addressed the convention in remarks which were both entertaining and eloquent. He referred feelingly to the origin and history of the unwashed Democracy; to the worthies who had promulgated the foundation principles of its doctrines. He urged Democrats to do their duty; to build from the foundation up instead of from the top downward, after the manner of their foolish opponents. Having acquitted ourselves like men in choosing officials, let us hold such officials to strict accountability.

After the conclusion of Mr. Alexander's speech three gentlemen were chosen secretaries, viz: James A. McClain, of Bellefonte; M. I. Gardner, of Howard borough, and Daniel K. Miller, of Marion township.

Clerk McClain read distinctly the names of the delegates, not one of them being contested.

The following were appointed by the chair a committee on resolutions: J. M. Keichline, Bellefonte; Edward Twitmire, Walker township; George McGaffey, of Philipsburg; R. G. Brett, of Ferguson township; Witmer Wolf, of Potter township. The committee retired and nominations for Associate Judge were declared in order.

Only two nominations were made, viz: Dr. Smith, of Ferguson township, and John Rishel, of Potter township, Seventy-seven votes were cast of which Mr. Rishel received 27 and Dr. Smith 50, nominating the latter. One gentleman voted for Rishel by mistake, but when informed that his township had instructed for Smith he obediently changed his vote. On motion, Mr. Smith's nomination was made unanimous.

For District Attorney W. C. Heinle Esq., was nominated by acclamation.

Four nominations were made for county surveyor, viz: Horace Hering, of Gregg township; Geo. G. Johnston, of Howard; J. H. Reifsnyder, of Millheim; Ellis Orvis, of Bellefonte. The first ballot resulted Hering 14, Johnston 6, Reifsnyder 12, Orvis 44, the last mentioned being the choice of the convention.

At this juncture the five committeemen, who had struggled bravely over a series of prepared resolutions, issued from the grand jury room to report, the resolutions being read by Clerk McClain. They endorse young Governor Pattison; also representatives Hunter and Meyer and the Democratic State nominations. These resolutions were unanimously adopted.

The Hon. P. Gray Meek was chosen chairman of the Democratic County Committee without any opponent for that office. A resolution was also adopted that hereafter the chairman of the county committee be a member of the state committee.

Nominations were then made for delegates to the State convention, their names and the votes they received being as follows: P. J. McDonald, of Unionville, 37; J. N. Cassanova, of Philipsburg, 15; D. F. Fortney, of Bellefonte, 52; Hugh McCann, of Rush township, 57; Ellis Shafer, of Miles township, 42; Nelson Lucas, of Spring township, 25; John Grove, of Potter township, 15. Of these the four highest on the list were elected, viz.: McDonald, Fortney, McCann and Shafer.

Among those who were present who deserve special mention were Judge Dopp, of Howard, Samuel Foust, of Miles township, also a prominent business man as well as a politician, and W. A. Krise, of Spring Mills, who usually attends the teachers' institutes as well as the political conventions.

George Eaton always occasioned a laugh when he was called on to vote.

The convention seemed peculiarly tame for a party that usually grows demonstrative on such occasions. We don't pretend to say whether that is a favorable or unfavorable sign. But we were favorably impressed with both the management and personnel of the convention. There's another ticket, however, in the field which should receive our votes on election day, and if Hon. C. T. Alexander's advice about electing the best men is to be followed our Democratic friends will vote for the men whose names are printed in the 1st column of the 2d page of this paper.

—The remains of the late Mrs. Sarah Williams (colored) were brought home from Danville on the 5 o'clock p. m. train on Wednesday.

Obadiah Bull in a China-Shop.

[Communicated.]

A certain china-man of our town has for some time been ringing the changes on what he calls "pot hunters," and from a left-handed way he has of shooting meadow larks, flickers and woodpeckers, he has fallen into a left handed way of "chinning" about those who beat him getting birds which it is both lawful to shoot and a luxury to eat.

This light weight sportsman has lately taken to calling the above named birds woodcocks (!) and under the influence of the imagination he is compelled to exercise when he eats them, he cannot count real woodcock correctly. For when on Wednesday, the 8th, a certain "Clerical Nimrod" showed him a little bunch of 6 whole woodcocks and the head of a seventh he magnified them to ten, and thus took upon himself the character of Obadiah Bull.

It is said that the sight had a bad effect upon him—such a bad effect that he went supperless to bed. But he could not sleep or stay there until morning light The Clerical Nimrod had captured some real woodcock this season—he had captured none. Within his ambitious bosom chagrin and desperation wrought irately, and remembering that the Clerical Nimrod had told him of five woodcock he and his companion had left dead upon the field of their previous day's hunt, he rose from his bed while it was yet dark, took with him several other sportsmen as ambitious as himself, with an equal number of dogs famous for finding dead birds, went to the field which the "Clerical Nimrod" described as the place where his party had left dead birds, and after sixteen hours of search brought home five real woodcock, "and then tried to palm them off on credulous individuals as trophies of his own skill." It may be truly said, "For ways that are dark, and tricks that are vain," the Bellefonte China-man "is peculiar."

Gone to Rest.

Mrs. Frances Hewes died Monday morning, August 13, about 10 o'clock, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Maggie Hutchinson, corner of Spring and Logan streets, in the 67th year of her age. She was the daughter of Rev. Marmaduke Pearce and a sister of Rev. John J. Pearce, of Huntingdon. She is the mother of four children—Maggie (now the widow of Doctor James Hutchinson, dec'd, late of Harrisburg), Frances, Kate and Charles P. Hewes, Esq. She was a native of Pennsvalley, having lived the greater part of her life at Potters Mills. Her chief desire was to remove to that village and spend the remainder of her days. This desire became greater the last year of her life. And now may her remains sweetly rest in that beauti-cemetery over-looking a lovely, quiet and peaceful valley until it shall be called forth by the last trumpet again to be reunited a glorified body and spirit, and then to be permitted to pass into the full enjoyment of that blessed home of eternal rest and glory. The deceased was a woman of remarkable intellect, well informed on general subjects and a great reader. The Bible was one of her closest companions, and her life was spent in its delightful service. She was a noble example of true Christian piety and a life-long member of the M. E. church. She was a kind mother and will be deeply lamented by her family. Funeral services at her daughter's residence Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock. Rev. George Penepacker of M. E. church officiated. Interment at Sprucetown cemetery.

The Event of the Season.

On Monday evening, August 13, a party of young people met at the residence of Mr. Montgomery to celebrate the 17th birthday of his son, Mr. Joseph L. Montgomery. We shall omit the names of the ladies, but among the gentlemen we noticed Messrs. H. Lyon, Corny Garman, J. Frank Yealy, Alfred Baum, Harry Johnston, Harry Bullock, John Bullock, Scott Harris, Harry Cook, Frank Lingle, William Purlstein and H. Harris.

The first most noticeable part of the festivities was music of an enjoyable kind by Mr. Lyon and Miss Richard. At a seasonable hour the company were bidden to partake of a bountiful repast, but before beginning the delightful task of discussing the menu Mr. Lyon arose and presented to Mr. Montgomery a beautiful and chaste gold pen and holder. He said it was a testimonial of remembrance and esteem from those present, but we regret to state that owing to the absence of a short-hand reporter we are unable to give the choice sentiments with which his remarks were replete. Mr. Montgomery responded in words of deep feeling and earnestness. Toasts were responded to by Messrs. Purlstein and Lyon. Then, with voracious appetites, the guests applied themselves to the task of disposing of the rare viands before them. Cake, ice cream and kindred delicacies disappeared as if by magic. Then followed a period of delightful pleasure when all present glided through the mazy dance to the time of joyful music. The concluding incident was a speech by J. Frank Yealy in which he thanked Mr. M., his sister and mother for the attention showed the guests. After bidding farewell they separated, wishing Mr. Montgomery many joyful returns of his natal day.

A Letter from London.

The following communication was received by Dr. H. K. Hoy of this place and is from a friend of his who is now traveling in Europe. The writer is a native of this county, although his present home is in the West. It was not written for publication:

LONDON, ENGLAND, July 31, 1883.

DEAR FRIEND: For fear that I may not have a better opportunity to write you, I will improve this one. I was very sick during the voyage across the Atlantic and did not stop long enough to recuperate on landing, and I never put in a busier time in my life than I have for the past month. I have been so tired at times that I could hardly get to my room and too tired to sleep. The fact is I have done too much, and the result is that I am weary and worn out. I landed at Queenstown and made a tour in Ireland so as to get a good typical view of Irish lake, coast and mountain scenery. I was agreeably disappointed in Ireland. I found a far better country than I expected to see, rich farming lands and everything such a bright, fresh and glossy green—rightly named the "Emerald Isle." My ideas have undergone a change in regard to the people of Ireland. It would take a long time to explain to you my views in reference to their condition, socially and politically, so I'll not commence. I crossed from Dublin, Ireland, to Holyhead, in Wales, along the wild rocky coast to the river Dee, up that river to the ancient city of Chester, Eng., one of the oldest and quaintest little cities in Britain. There is no doubt about its being very old; many evidences have been unearthed from beneath the city. I went from there to Liverpool and then southeast to York, to the "Royal, Agricultural Show." I was fortunate in being able to be there and see Great Britain live stock of all kinds in their perfection, and I was particularly interested in the fine display of horses. From there I went north and stopped three or four days on Solway Firth among the farmers, where they raise Clydesdale horses, Galloway and Ayreshire cattle, and I think I was greatly benefited by my short visit. From there via. Carlisle I went to Glasgow and made a round trip through the lakes and highlands of Scotland, a land made famous by Sir Walter Scott. In Lake Katrine is located "Ellues Isle," where Sir Walter fixed the home of the Lady of the Lake, Helen Douglass. Scott's poems are the best companion a person can have in traveling through this beautiful

"Land of dark heath and shaggy wood,
Land of the mountain and the flood."

I visited Sterling, historically one of the most interesting in Scotland. Near by is the old battle field of Bannockburn. From the height of Sterling Castle a magnficent view can be had. The view I had from there and from Edinburgh Castle I think I will always remember. It was grand and inspiring. Edinburg is a beautiful city. I spent several days there and from there I visited Abbotsford, Sir Walter Scott's home, and Dryburgh Abbey, where he is buried—from there to Liverpool and thence to London. Distance from Liverpool to London 210 miles, time 4½ hours. Every place that I visited letters of many pages could be written, but I haven't the time. * * * *

The letter closes with a few words of a personal nature.

To Farmers.

Farmers can very satisfactorily use phosphates in ordinary drill, without fertilizing attachment. In the State of Ohio the farmer does not stop to fix attachment to his drill, or replace it with one having fertilizing attachment. He simply mixes the phosphate with the wheat, and the fertilizer passes out with the cost of wheat. In all cases the admixture with the soil is thorough, and the phosphate reveals itself in a vigorous and uniform growth of wheat.

—The Altoona ball nine went down to Lock Haven on the 13th with the intention of having a picnic with the Paragons. As everybody expected, they won the game, but it was by no means a walk-over. Shafer, the home pitcher, troubled the visitors considerably, striking out several men, while Yarnall was hit with ease. During the early part of the game the Paragons played nervously making many costly errors, and allowing the Altoonas to obtain a long lead. After the fifth inning, however, they braced up and played in much better form. At the close of the seventh inning, at which time the NEWS representative was obliged to leave the grounds, the score stood 14 to 3 in favor of Altoona. The final score was 17 to 3.

—A "postal" from a member of Company B, written on Saturday, August 11, is as follows: "We reached Evansburg this morning at 8 o'clock and had a full 2-mile march. We put up the tents and are now nicely fixed. The boys are putting in the afternoon bathing in the lake and fishing and boating, as there is no duty laid out for to-day, camp not going into effect until morning. General Beaver and boys arrived this morning, fully enjoying their trip across the country. The prospects are for a No. 1 time."

Doctors Disagree.

As a reporter for the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette sat (yesterday afternoon) in a chamber at No. 321 Federal street, Allegheny, listening to a terrible tale of suffering as it fell from the lips of a gentle little lady, Mrs. Milo Ingram, the daughter of Capt. Hugh McKelvey, of this city, it seemed almost too much to believe, if the evidence had not been close at hand to substantiate every word. It was but another evidence of the culpable ignorance of a large class of practitioners of medicine who claimed for six years that her terrible disease was cancer. She was covered with ulcers, given up to die. Peruna cured her perfectly. Continued on page 24, in "Ills of Life," by Dr. Hartman. Ask your druggist for one.

—Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Bush do not expect to spend the coming winter in the South, which will be contrary to their usual custom. In all probability their elegant home will be kept open all winter, dispensing its very generous hospitality.

ALL FOR NOTHING.

Why the Doctor was Disgusted and what Might have been Done without Him.

"Well, wife," said Dr. E——, as he entered his house, which was situated in a cosy village in New York, "I have got back from a long and dreary ride away down among the mountains, and all to no purpose whatever. The messenger said the man wouldn't live till morning when the fact is he had only an ordinary attack of colic. If the simpletons had only had sense enough to put a BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER on his stomach he would have been all right in an hour or two. But some folks are slow to learn," added the old physician, swallowing the cup of steaming tea which his wife had just poured for him.

Doctor E—— was right, yet people do learn, even though slowly. The rapidly increasing use of Benson's plaster proves this beyond question, and the good doctors are certain to be saved much of their needless toil. In all cases capable of being affected by a plaster Benson's acts efficiently and at once. The genuine have the word CAPCINE cut in the centre. Price 25 cents.

—Next Saturday the Milesburg and Bellefonte (Eureka) base ballists will meet in this place. The Tyrone club will also meet the Eurekas soon. We suggest that the latter nine strengthen their forces for these important occasions by the additions of Frank Keller, Frank Lingle and Mr. Browse.

—Those who oppose the Eurekas in base ball find that a peculiarity of Hughes' pitching is that the longer he occupies the pitcher's box the stronger his pitching becomes. About the time they begin to think that the pitcher is "played out," and they will be able to strike his balls better, the aforesaid balls come in hotter than ever. It takes about one hour for him to get his "hand in."

—Mr. Adam Bartges, a prominent farmer of Haines township, with the aid of four hired men, a few days ago, threshed and cleaned 1800 common-sized sheaves of wheat, making a little less than seven quarts to one hundred sheaves. The work was done with a common horse-power thresher.

—In expectation that building operations in Bellefonte will grow into grand proportions in the near future a new firm has just sprung into existence known as Olewine & Parsons. They are now engaged on their first contract in erecting an addition to one of the finest structures in Bellefonte. —Deaths of late have been quite frequent. Last Thursday little David Colpetzer, living with his mother, Nancy Colpetzer, and his grandmother, Mrs. Kechler, on Spring street, breathed his last, after a long illness. His sickness was rheumatism, which culminated in consumption. He became very much attenuated and his death was hourly expected. Perhaps every boy and girl in Bellefonte know "Davy" Colpetzer, and a generous community will see that the family receive the proper attention at this sad hour.

The Collection of School Taxes.

It happened in the course of human events that a meeting of the Borough School Board was held on Monday night, August 13, which took important action in the election of a teacher, the levying and apportionment of school tax and the election of a collector. The right to collect the tax was conferred upon J. M. Keichline, Esq., than whom there is no better collector in the State.

But it seems to us that the honorable Board were slighty too "previous" in the appointment of a collector. There is a provision of the school law of which they might have taken advantage and thus saved the citizens of the town who pay taxes promptly a considerable sum of money. It is found on pages 98 and 99 of the School Laws, from which we quote: "The board of school directors shall place in the hands of the treasurer a certified duplicate of the school tax, and it shall be his duty to give at least one month's notice of the time and place at which he will attend, at least one day, for the purpose of receiving school tax; and it shall be his duty to receive and receipt for all school tax given him for three months after the date of said notice; Provided, That if any person on or before the expiration of two months after the date of said notice, shall pay to the collector the amount of his or her tax, such person shall be entitled to a reduction of five per cent. on the amount thereof." * * *

Now to our citizens whose school tax amounts to ten, twenty, thirty or even forty dollars a five per cent. reduction is very acceptable. For the treasurer of the school board to constitute himself the collector will devolve upon him some inconvenience and trouble, which perhaps he is perfectly willing to escape. But there is a right which citizens have which encourages the prompt payment of taxes, and we recommend it to the consideration of the Board.

The same act provides for the election of a special collector at the expiration of three months after notice given, at such compensation as shall be agreed upon, not exceeding five per cent.

A Night Blooming Cereus that Blossomed Alone.

John Ardell, Jr., is the possessor of a night blooming cereus which he has had for eight years without detecting the trace of a blossom on it. But recently it promised to put forth a beautiful flower and several lady friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ardell awaited in blissful expectation of witnessing it. But the sequel will show that they waited in vain. One or two ladies expected the blossom to unfold on Wednesday night, but the larger part of those who knew of it did not anticipate its appearance so soon. Accordingly, they retired to their rest as usual. Mr. Ardell was out quite late that night giving his attention to business, coming home about 11 o'clock. Immediately on entering the house an intoxicating fragrance almost overpowered him and he knew that something was the matter. Entering his smoking room he discovered that the cereus was blooming beautifully and that the flower had almost reached perfection. Mr. Ardell succeeded in getting Mr. Zeller, the druggist, but was afraid to call his lady friends for fear that they would box his ears for arousing them from their slumbers. The two gentlemen admired the rare flower alone. It continued to grow larger and more beautiful until 12 o'clock when it decreased in size and its beauty disappeared. When in full bloom it was a foot in diameter and about three feet in circumference, and was pure white, one of the rarest and most beautiful blossoms ever seen. Mr. Ardell put alcohol upon it but it continued to fade. He says that the perfume from it was so powerful that he was forced to leave the house several times. Those who know all about it say that the same plant will put forth another plant before the end of autumn. Next time Mr. Ardell will watch its development more closely and give his friends the benefit of the rare and interesting spectacle. One lady who was sitting up waiting for a summons to come and view the flower is very angry at Mr. Ardell for not calling her.

—A brilliant lawn party was given on Thursday evening at the commodious and comfortable home of Mr. J. V. Thomas in honor of Miss Cooper, of New York city, who is a guest of Miss Mary Thomas. The lawn was brilliantly illuminated and during the evening the elegant apartments of the house and the spacious grounds were thronged with the youth and beauty of Bellefonte and vicinity. Seventy-five persons were present and the time was spent most enjoyably. Very elegant refreshments were served. The entertainment will long be remembered as one of the most delightful ever participated in by those present.

Another Victory for the Eurekas.

Quite a crowd gathered on the Fair Grounds on Saturday afternoon to witness the game of base ball between the Eureka club of this place and a picked nine. The result was an easy victory for the Eurekas with a score of 26 to 7. The picked nine won the toss and through the errors of the Eurekas succeeded in winning two runs. The first two innings were exciting, the score being tied several times, when in the third inning the Eurekas succeeded in piling up eight runs through heavy batting, aided by errors of the picked nine. For the Eurekas Garrett did good work behind the bat, giving Hughes excellent support and retiring ten on strikes. McKnight made several difficult stops and led at the bat. For the picked nine F. Keller did finely at the bat and in the field. Hamill, Browse and Shrom also did excellent work. The umpiring of Mr. Elliot showed throughout the game his knowledge of rules and a fairness in deciding hard to excel. We append the score:

—Through the kindness of Mr. McClure we were permitted to see a copy of the Fulton County Tribune, published at Wauseow, Ohio, August 11, which records the death of Eleanor Moss, a lady who was many years ago a resident of this place, which sad event occurred at the residence of her sister, Mrs. G. W. Stokes, at Wauseou, Ohio, on Friday night, the 3d inst. The Tribune, in alluding to the deceased, says: "In the year 1828 she went to Bellefonte (from Mifflinburg), and made her home with her sister, Mary Ann Lambert, until the time of her death, when she took charge of her family, which consisted of four children, viz: Rebecca E., Robert, George and T. J. Lambert. With Rebecca and Thomson J. she remained in Bellefonte, engaging in millinery business until 1844, when she moved to Massilon, Ohio. In 1845 she went to Mansfield, Ohio, and from there in 1852 moved to West Unity, O. In 1865 she moved from Ohio to Lake City, Minn., her niece Rebecca taking charge of the business. She remained there until the fall of '71, when she returned to Ohio and made her home with her sister until the time of her death, which resulted from cancer. She was a member of the M. E. church 61 years." Many of our readers will remember the above estimable lady.

—Mr. Jeremiah Byers, who died at his home in Johnstown on Thursday, August 9, was well known in this county, his marriage occurring here in 1856. Mr. Frank McMullen of McCoy & Linn Works, handed us a copy of the Johnstown Tribune of the 10th which publishes a long obituary of deceased, from which we learn that he was born in Tyrone, Blair county, Pa., in October, 1829. During nearly all of his life he had been employed in iron works, including those of the Cambria Iron Company, at Johnstown, and the Edgar Thompson Steel Works and others. He was also a soldier in the late unpleasantness being connected with company B, 133d regiment, P. V., and afterwards becoming a member of Company G, 192d regiment of infantry. Industrious, brave and honest, he was much respected and will be deeply mourned by his widow and six children—five daughters and a son. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, the 13th, at 3 o'clock; interment in Sandyvale cemetery.

—Mrs. Sarah Williams, a colored resident of this borough, who has lately been confined in the Danville Insane Asylum, died in that institution on Monday night of last week. Her remains were brought to Bellefonte on Wednesday for burial. She has two daughters living in town who will deeply mourn her death. How sad was her fate! Her mind was clouded during the latter months of her life. But now she has entered upon an existence where the trials which afflict mind, body and soul will never enter.

—Judge Mayer held his first court in the new district at Emporium, on Monday, August 13.

Timber Tracts Purchased.

The Emporium Independent says that Messrs. C. B. & William Howard on the 3d inst. purchased from Messrs. John Irving & Bros., of Curwensville, Clearfield county, a tract of timber land known in that section as the Elk Lick tract, containing 609 acres, for which they paid $152,000 cash in hand. This is the highest price per acre ever paid for timber lands in the state. The tract lies along the bank of the river and is easy of access, and is said to have been purchased some forty years ago by the father of the Irving Brothers for less than $4,000.

The Messrs. Howard are the enterprising gentlemen of the firm of Howard, Perley & Howard, who are building the extensive mill here for the manufacture of lumber, and our people wish them abundant success in their business enterprises.

The Lock Haven Express also reports that a big sale of timber lands closed Tuesday by Mr. Samuel Marsh, of that city, to Williams & Forseman, of Williamsport, for $30,000, and the purchasers may consider themselves very fortunate, as experienced lumberman say they have secured one of the greatest bargains of the season. The land was owned by Anson and Isaac Underwood, and is situated in the northern part of Clinton county. The tract consists of 5,200 acres, and on it are 6,000,000 feet of white pine, 20,000,000 yellow pine, 20,000 hemlock and 1,000 car loads of mine prop timber.

Gov. Curtin and the "Sixteeners."

The Association of "Sixteeners" has been holding a convention in Altoona this week and on Thursday evening gave a reception in the Opera House, the large room being filled. The Altoona Tribune relates a pleasant incident of the reception which has special local interest in Bellefonte.

While the grand march was in progress, says the Tribune, ex-Gov. Curtin entered the room escorted by Major Howard. President Vannauker proposed three cheers for the gallant old war governor, and they were given with such vim that the building fairly shook. The governor, was then escorted to the stage, and after being introduced by Mayor Howard made an address to the "Sixteeners," whom he called his children. The governor was loudly applauded at intervals, and when he concluded President Vannauker stepped forward and on behalf of the members of the association presented him with a gold badge emblematic of the "Sixteeners" association. The governor returned thanks for the honor conferred on him.

Sudden Death at Clintondale.

On Sunday, August 13, the residents of the quiet town of Clintondale, Clinton county, were shocked by the announcement of the sudden death of an estimable citizen, Mr. George W. Bonnell. He had been ill for two weeks and not able to attend to his usual employment on Saturday previous to his death, but no thought that his end was so near occurred to either him or his wife. In the morning at 5 o'clock his wife spoke to him and receiving no answer became alarmed. Twice she tried to raise him up from the bed on which he was lying near her, but he fell back again. A physician was summoned who gave the opinion that Mr. Bonnell's death was caused by the breaking of an abscess which had formed on one of his lungs and consequent strangulation.

He was about 36 years of age and leaves a wife but no children. He was a brother-in-law of Mr. Frank Bible, recorder of this county. The interment took place at Jersey Shore, Lycoming county.

—The nearest friends and the dearest friends are those of youth. What wouldn't one do, then or now, for the play-fellows of childhood—when the world seemed like a great play-house or like an enchanted castle where treasures lay in every corner? The boy with whom we went a-fishing was a true friend for he sympathized with us when we were thrashed and for us and the pleasure of our society went chestnuting when dire punishment was inevitable on his return. And the girls always stood up for the boys, never told tales nor got us into trouble, in their secret souls feeling proud of the strength, intelligence, and wit of the Hardscrable boys—and hating our foes of Punktown with an undying hatred. Then, when in later life the boys and girls walk in diverse paths, some plodding, fainting or dying mayhap, while others strive, persevere and conquer, what a brotherhood is built up—one which reaches away down into our very souls, yet requires recollection and retrospection to call its forces out.—Ex.

—A mania for repairing pavements has again overtaken the residents of High street. On Friday men were busy on each side of the street just east of Spring creek.

A Question of Constitutionality.

Some of the members of the Huntingdon bar express doubts as to the constitutionality of the new Judicial Apportionment act in providing a judge for that district without an election by the people. The Constitution requires that all judges learned in the law, except those in the Supreme Court, shall be elected by the qualified electors of the respective districts over which they are to preside. Judge Oryis was additional law judge of the former Centre District, and is made present judge of this district, these lawyers say, by act of Assembly, and not by election. The question is whether this is in accordance with the constitutional provisions. There is no personal feeling in the matter or objection to the new judge, but an important legal principle is involved, which they say ought to be settled. Judge Orvis will hold court in Huntingdon next Monday.—L. H. Journal

—The soldier boys came "marching" home on a passenger car attached to the construction train last Saturday afternoon, in less style, by the way, than when they went to the encampment. They looked like men who had encountered the hardships of war and were glad to return to a civilian's life: Their dust-begrimmed countenances were soon cleaned and their uniforms exchanged for citizen's apparel. They report an excellent time and are well pleased with the result of the encampment, and if what we hear is correct they have reason for satisfaction. It is said that the Second Brigade is the finest in the National Guard, and that Company B. "takes the cake" in the Second Brigade. If that's not high recommendation we fail to know what it is.

—Mr H. C. Weaver, the tobacconist, is erecting an iron fence before his pleasant residence on Howard street which, when finished, will greatly improve the appearance of the property.
